

Trigger warning of non-consensual words and imagery:

I was scared to come out about this when JAR was well-seen in the Commentary community. And if I were to show my experience, I would be terrified of being harassed, threatened, or any terrible way people who would defend JAR. But after hearing about Just a Robot's downfall, I can finally speak out.

Who is Just a Robot? He is a commentator on YouTube and is well-known for political issues. He reviews movies or any TV shows. His robot character often represses him, and he mainly uses his voice to express his opinions.

It has been four to five years since I joined Just a Robot's server. I must come clean about this because I do not want to stay silent anymore, and I feel the need to get this out of my system. I am 21 now, but I joined his server when I was 17. I was a big fan of JAR. Every Tuesday, he would join his VC for his announcement or chat with his fans. Even he would play Smash Bros with other users. When I sent a friend request to JAR, he immediately accepted it. I was thrilled and felt like I was exceptional in the server.

Until around October, I joined the VC and wanted to ask him for an Art Role since I greatly enjoy drawing and modeling. He then makes a joke in a public voice call, "Drawing his OC violating stuff to Jaiden Animations." The people in the call started freaking out before he asked my age. I said I was 17. He then tried to backtrack and asked for a drawing of Jaiden lifting her shirt and a sexy pose (This means he continued requesting me to draw this for him and to give me the art role). He sent a link in my DMs to a Google search,

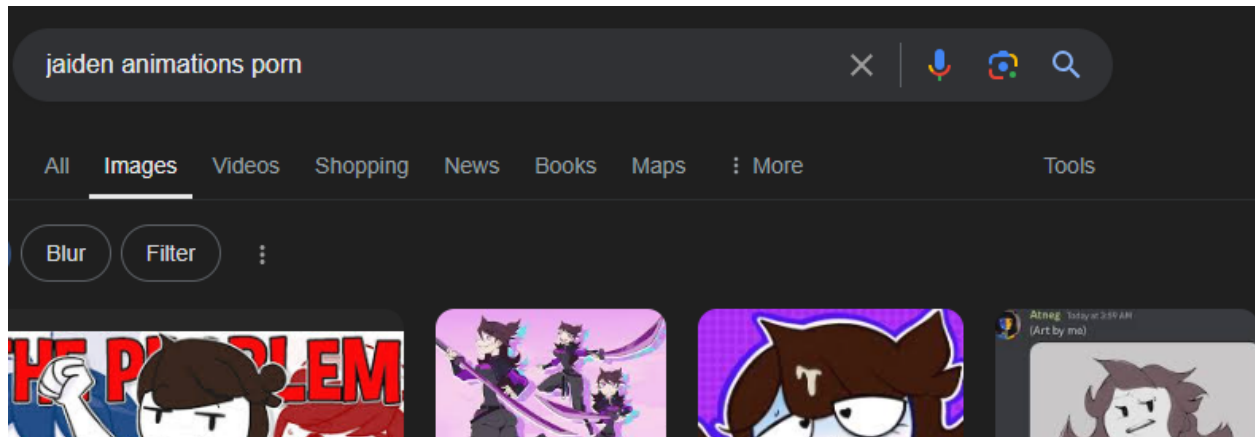

"Jaiden Animation P*rn." I thought this was OK and drew it for him the next day. Nobody questioned it nor even called him out after this happened (Not even the moderators). It was lingering in my mind that day if asking a 17-year-old these requests just for an art role was OK.

I thought that this request was a joke. I did get that role after I sent that drawing to him. He kept me around as a friend for four years after this happened. I tried interacting with him, but he would barely talk with me because of how busy he was, and I respected that (I even wanted to speak with him, but he never got the time to do so. But I still respected him). But I would continue to look at those previous DMs about what he sent me—never deleted. I feel incredibly guilty for not speaking this out in public. I was scared that people who were still fans of JAR would do something terrible to me that I didn't want. I wanted to keep myself and my family safe.

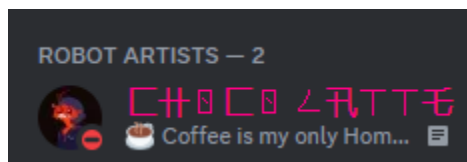

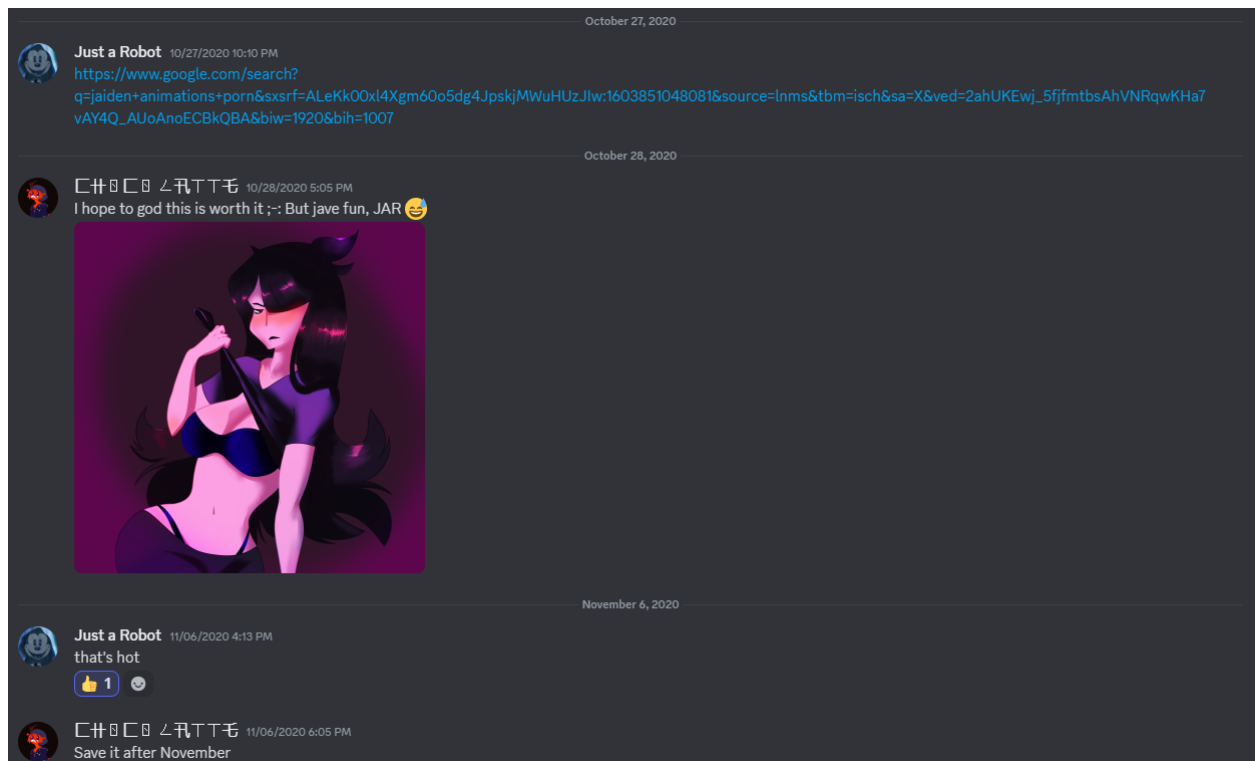

The only things I've spoken to were my friends and love companion. They even say He was wrong to do this to a minor. But it was four years ago. I didn't know if this was considered too late or didn't matter. Because he still did this to me when I was a kid. But I am finally here to speak out about my experience with him. The things that he shouldn't have done. I thought he would change and be a better person. But I had this terrible gut feeling that something wrong would happen. But I ignored it. I thought everything was going to be OK. I feel awful for not speaking out so soon when I had the chance. But I was too scared that I would get attacked by many fans who would defend JAR. But now I can speak my mind because it's the right thing to do. And I can't sit and linger about this any longer.

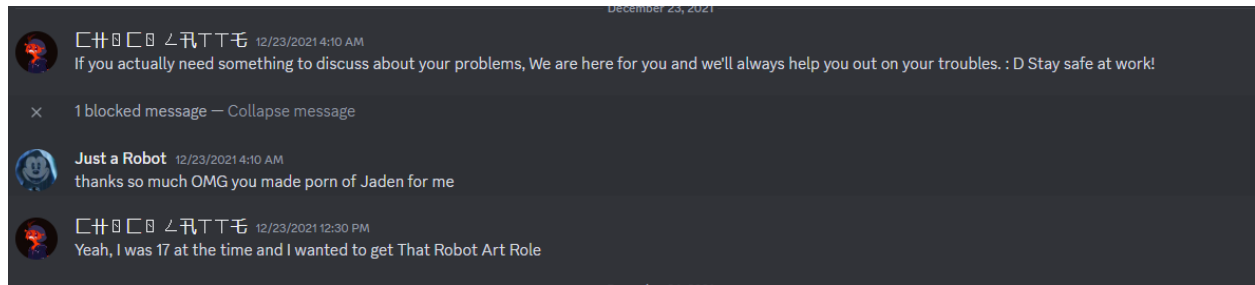

JAR doesn't think before he says or does something to take action. He never sees what's wrong with who he socializes with people. There are many things that JAR did that are terrible. And I've been killing myself on the inside for having this thought for so long. I hope everyone who is reading this can understand my worries and the mental state that I'm in right now is a lot of hell. This message will bring up what JAR has done. And I will never forget nor forgive the terrible things he has done to me.

What are the things he knew about me? I was a minor. He knew my age; he continued the request for me to draw something lewd for him for an art role. He should've stopped himself and thought that what he was requesting from an actual child was wrong. He wouldn't have contacted me in the first place and asked someone else who is a full-grown adult. But he didn't. There are no excuses whatsoever for what he's done to me. And I will never forgive him.

This link takes me to the Google search of Rule 34 to a MINOR.

Even when I became an adult and told him what he had done, he did not react whatsoever. He never blocked me or apologized for his actions. He still kept me around. I'm glad that I can finally stay away from him.

I now feel safer and free.
