INT. A Bible store.

A woman in her late fifties, KIM, enters the old-looking store. She is greeted by a man, PAUL, in his forties, who is the owner of the store.

PAUL

Good afternoon, ma'am, how may I help you?

KIM

I am looking for a new Bible. I gave my old one to my nephew, as a present. You know, you gotta start them young, am I right?

(She laughs)

PAUL

Couldn't agree more! You seem like quite a wise women. I will be more than glad to show you a selection. Right this way.

They both walk over to a big shelf. PAUL picks up one of the Bibles.

PAUL

This is the old, original version. It looks quite ancient, too - the brown leather gives it a simple yet elegant finish.

KIM takes the Bible and leafs through it. She then hands it back to PAUL.

KIM

I'm sorry, but I don't think this is the right one for me. I see that it still contains the part about divorce being forbidden. Do you happen to carry a Bible sparing that detail?

PAUL

Of course, right over here.

They walk a few steps to the right. PAUL picks up a different Bible.

PAUL (CONT'D)

Maybe this one is more to your liking. Not once is divorce as an abomination mentioned.

KIM leafs through this one as well.

KIM (Disappointed)

Oh.

She closes the Bible and hands it back to PAUL, who puts it back.

KIM (CONT'D)

I just noticed this one still contains the part about alcohol. Is there anything we can do about that?

PAUL

Oh don't you worry!

They walk around the shelf. PAUL picks up yet another Bible.

Here.

PAUL hands it to KIM, who studies it carefully.

PAUL (CONT'D)

This one doesn't mention either of those.

KIM

That's closer to what I had in mind. Now, do you happen to have a Bible in store that - in addition to omitting divorce and alcohol - has extra parts condemning homosexuality?

PAUL

Aah! You're looking for the 'no-homo Bible,' of course!

HE starts walking further down the aisle and KIM follows. He stops in front of a shelf, picks up one of the Bibles with 'NO HOMO' printed on the front cover in gold.

PAUL (CONT'D)

There you go. The most recent 'no-homo' edition. Seven extra sections condemning homosexuality and three additional ones about those trans.. people.. whatever you call them. As a bonus, it even omits the shrimp ban!

KIM grabs it, flips through it, closes it and responds with a big smile.

KIM

I think this is it! I'll take this one!

PAUL (overjoyed)
Excellent! Is there anything else I can do for you?

KIM
No thank you, I'm all set!

PAUL
Perfect. The register is right this way.

They walk to the register. PAUL places the Bible in a paper bag. He then throws in some stickers.

PAUL
As another small treat, I'll include some 'God hates fags' stickers and a limited-edition '#whitelivesmatter' bumper sticker, alright?

KIM
Oh, why thank you for your generosity! You are a true man of faith.

PAUL responds with a warm smile. She takes the plastic bag and heads towards the door.

PAUL
Thank you and have a wonderful day!

CUT TO - EXT. KIM exits the store and walks towards a big van in the parking lot. She opens the passenger seat door and gets in.
CUT TO - INT. There are four men sitting right next to and right behind her in the van. She greets them all with a kiss. Twenty children are huddled in the back.

KIM
Thank you for waiting, my darlings!

She looks into the rearview mirror.

KIM (CONT'D)
MATTHEW! Stop making out with your sister!

CUT TO - EXT. We see the van in the parking lot drive off.

BLACKOUT.
