Big Ideas:

- Foundational skills will begin to develop by manipulating phonemes, syllables, and words in order to become highly proficient decoders and readers.
- Readers determine the important lessons characters learn in a story and the characteristics that make a good leader within the story.
- Readers can identify the visual patterns and structures in a poem.
- Use higher order thinking and metacognitive strategies to analyze and comprehend when listening and reading a variety of texts.
- Readers build an understanding of a variety of texts by making connections, understanding key ideas such as the author's purpose, locate the central idea and supporting details, summarize, as well as asking questions about the text.
- Author's write and apply appropriate English grammatical conventions and writing elements to compose, revise and edit various texts including a personal narrative, a descriptive essay, and a persuasive text.

Essential Questions:

- Explain what is procedural text? Use words like first, next ,then to explain.
- How do statement sentences and command sentences differ? How are they alike?
- What is a proper noun? When do you use a proper noun?What are the characteristics of a good leader?
- How do the characteristics of the text and text features help the author explain an idea to a reader?
- How does the evidence in the text support your inference?

Core Competencies:

Formative:

- Students will demonstrate progression of foundational reading skills through:
 - knowing when and how to use proper nouns.
 - increased fluency of multisyllabic word and sight word recognition
 - application of taught decoding and encoding skills to all syllable types
 - independent reading of grade level text with increasing fluency (reference DVISD Reading Correlation below)
- Students will demonstrate understanding of literary text by:
 - recognizing the characteristics of multiple genres.
 - make and confirm predictions using what they know about text features, characteristics of genre and structure.
 - engage in conversations about the character, plot and settings to determine central idea and author's purpose
 - Making connections between a text and their own lives.
- Students will demonstrate understanding of writing by:
 - writing an option that includes supporting facts and details.
 - writing a response to a text,using evidence to support ideas:

Summative:

- Students will critically analyze and compose a personal narrative focusing on the steps in the writing process.
- Students will demonstrate progress towards mastery of unit content on end of unit Module Assessments and Inventories.

Culminating Project: Solving Problems in the World- Students will research the governments' responsibilities towards citizens, choose one significant issue, create a visual, and an

sentence: Sometimes the weather helps us decide what to do that day. Think about how the weather affects what you do and what you wear. Write about the weather and you. Describe the weather and how it helps you decide what to do that day. Teacher Rubric Student Friendly Rubric	Set Goals for Writing Be sure to do the following in your poem: • Write a title. • Write about weather, using short lines of text. • Write one or two stanzas. • Use rhyming words, if possible. • Use sensory words. • Use correct spelling, capitalization, and punctuation. Get Started! Go to Writer's Notebook 6.2 and write your own goals. Identify a Topic Tell children to use the weather words they generated in an earlier lesson to help them select their topic. Remind children to include rhyming words or words that mimic sounds related to weather. Model: Revise your own list of words and examples of rhyming words generated in previous lessons and use think aloud to choose your topic.	Elements of a Poem Title: My Kite in the Wind sensory word: wind onomatopoeia: boom rhyming words: kite, boom First Stanza: The kite wind boom in my hand Letting me know it is here I trace the wind with my bright red kite And, on the blustery windy wings, I I stop and watch my kite take flight. Your Turn! Draw a line under these same elements on Writer's Notebook page 6.4. Model: Guide students to analyze the structure and word choice in the poem with guiding questions: What weather is described? What is the writer going to do in that weather? Which lines rhyme in the first stanza? Which lines rhyme in the second stanza? Let's make the sound of the wind together. Can you think of another word that sounds like the wind?	you learn anything from the poem? Were you entertained by the poem? Did the poem ask you to do anything? Why did the poet change some words in line 10? How is the meaning slightly different? Why might the poet have organized the poem with two stanzas? Model: Talk through your purpose and audience for your poem. Think aloud about your choices with students.	The hot steamy bowl of soup. Discuss: Which phrase creates a stronger image? Why? Model: Revisit your own poem to add one sensory detail with students' help and suggestions.	Conferencing Be sure to use some of these ✓ a clear message ✓ stanzas ✓ sensory words ✓ rhyming words: cat sat mat ✓ alliteration: big black bug ✓ rhythm: one, two, buckle my shoe ✓ onomatopoeia: boom Your Turn! Revise using this checklist and Writer's Notebook page 6.6. Watch for and fix a message that is unclear poor structure and organization words that do not describe the topic missing sound patterns Model: Think aloud about your own work using the checklist. Ask students for feedback using sentence stems: I like that you used the sensory word ____. Your description of the weather ____. What if you used a word to tell how you feel when it is ____.

	W219 Subject-verb agreement	W220 Subjects and more verbs	W221 Pronouns and verbs	Review: W337 Review abbreviations	Make Connections to Writing-Subject-verb agreement W223

Subject-Verb Agreement
The correct form of a verb to use depends on the subject of the sentence.
In a sentence that tells about now, singular subjects use a verb that ends in -s. In a sentence that tells about now, plural subjects use a verb without the -s.

singular ends in -s The teacher sits in the desk chair.	plural no -s The teachers sit in the desk chairs.

GP: Tell children that a verb names the action in a sentence. The subject tells who or what does the action. Remind children that a pronoun can replace the subject of a sentence.

Model how to identify the subject/predicate and ask: Does the verb agree with the subject?

IP: Students will identify subject-verb agreement in sentences about familiar topics.

Subjects and More Verbs
In a sentence that tells about now, add -s to a verb that ends in -s, -es, -ies, -ies, -es, or -es to match a singular subject.

Singular Subject and Verb The train passes the rink. The girl watches the skaters. The chef makes hot soup. The boy reaches for a ball.	Plural Subject and Verb The trains pass the rink. The girls watch the skaters. The chefs make hot soup. The boys reach for a ball.

GP: Remind children to use the correct form of a verb to match the subject of a sentence that tells about something happening now. Ask: Who is the sentence about? What is the subject doing? Do the subject and verb agree?

IP: Students will identify subject-verb agreement in sentences about familiar topics.

Pronouns and Verbs
If the pronoun he, she, or it is the subject of a sentence that tells about now, add -s or -es to the verb.
If the pronoun I, you, we, or they is the subject of a sentence that tells about now, do not add -s or -es to the verb.

Pronoun he, she, or it Add -s or -es to Verb He throws the ball. She catches the ball.	Pronoun I, you, we, or they No Change to Verb They watch the game. We cheer very loudly.

GP: Tell students that because pronouns take the place of a noun in a sentence, they also have to agree with the verb.

Model how to identify the pronoun/verb and ask: Does the verb agree with the pronoun?

IP: Students will identify subject-verb agreement in practice sentences.

Review Abbreviations
An abbreviation is a shortened form of a longer word. People's titles and the names of days, months, and places are proper nouns that can be shortened. Abbreviations for proper nouns begin with a capital letter and end with a period.

Titles	Abbreviations	Proper Nouns	Abbreviations
Miss	Ms.	Monday	Mon.
Doctor	Dr.	March	Mar.
		Main Street	Main St.

GP: Remind children that titles for people and the names for days, months, and places can be shortened. To write these abbreviations, you take out some letters and put a period at the end. If an abbreviation is a proper noun, it begins with a capital letter.

IP: Students will practice using abbreviations in groups and individually

Connect to Writing: Using Correct Subject-Verb Agreement
Take your writing carefully. Make sure the verb goes with the subject.

Singular Subject and Verb Bill reads a new book. He writes in the notebook. Paula watches the movie.	Plural Subject and Verb Bill and Paula read a new book. They write in the notebook. The friends watch the movie.

GP: Review the rules for subject/pronoun-verb agreement:

- In a sentence that tells about now, singular subjects use a verb that ends in -s. Add -es to verbs that end with s, sh, ch, tch, z, or x to agree with a singular subject.

-When the pronoun he, she, or it is the subject of a sentence that tells about now, use a verb that ends in -s or -es.

- In a sentence that tells about now, plural subjects use verbs without -s or -es.

-When the pronoun I, you, they, or we is the subject of a sentence that tells about now, do not add -s or -es to the verb.

IP: Students will revise sentences with the correct form of subject-verb agreement.
