Enhancing Your Breasts with a Mommy Makeover

The breasts are another common area of concern following pregnancy and are often one of the key focuses of a mommy makeover procedure. Pregnancy leads to an increase in breast size that can leave some mothers with sagging breasts following breastfeeding. If this is the case, then you may benefit from a breast lift with or with our breast augmentation.

A breast lift places the breasts higher up on the chest by removing excess skin. Any asymmetry or enlarged areolas that may have developed as a result of pregnancy are also addressed to create breasts that are youthful and perky. Several different options exist for breast lift surgery and depend on each patient's needs and desired results, such as the incision location.

A breast lift can also be paired with breast augmentation to restore size that was lost following pregnancy, or simply to increase volume and help you achieve your dream body. During breast augmentation, saline or silicone implants are placed to increase size and build the ideal shape based upon your preference.

If you are unhappy with the shape and size of your breasts following pregnancy, then a breast augmentation with or without a breast lift can restore your breasts to their youthful perkiness, along with additional lift or volume. Dr. Thornton will go over all aspects of both procedures with you, helping you choose between implant types, incision locations and implant placement.
