Grading

- Your semester grade will be based on the following:
 - Homework/in-class work 40%
 - Essays 60%

Assignments

- All work must be handed in or presented at the start of class. Anything after that time will be considered late and down-graded one grade per class day.

Blog requirements

- Once a week you are required to post a comment on the class blog. Weeks are counted as Monday-Sunday, so anywhere in there is open for posting.
- The content of the articles I will be posting is baseball related, and the articles will be anything from a player profile to a cool game write-up to some fun little something I found in the newspaper. Think of this material as supplementary reading that isn't really literary and, therefore, not really enough for a class discussion, but I can promise you that the stuff is good. Real good. And super interesting.

Class Expectations

- You are expected to come to class on time and you are expected to participate daily. Be polite, be engaged, be curious. Please don't let your phone or computer get in the way of meaningful connections with your peers, with me or with the texts. Don't lie. Don't cheat. Don't steal.
