

The best present from the tooth fairy

Bark Bark! Awwwwww what dog is that? Do you want a dog? I know I do. I have always wanted a dog since my dog passed away.

On Saturday morning my tooth suddenly fell out. I got soooo excited and told my mom and by the end of the day I wrote a whole page of words for the tooth fairy aka (mom). At night I hid the tooth and the note under my fluffy pillow and dozed off to sleep. I woke up with a note.

The note said “ Give me a week so I could talk to your parents.” I was so excited. I had to wait but it was worth it. Then a week later I got some adoption letters. It said I picked a dog and I did. There were two dogs that looked very alike. One was more black and the other was more white. I wanted the one that was more white but my sister wanted the other. We finally decided that we should vote as a whole family. We counted the votes and we were surprised to see it was a tie. My mom finally stepped in and told me that I should decide myself. I went up the stairs and I saw how my sister looked. She was desperate to get the dog that has more black so I decided to surprise her. The next day we hopped in the car with a blanket and drove off to get the dog. The drive was two hours away and I was so excited to see the dog.

When we got there I saw a small dog running full speed towards me. He was so excited and in that minute I knew that this is the dog I would love. And he is.
