Other resources that can be helpful:

- An in-depth review of quantitative reasoning can be found here https://www.nite.org.il/files/psych/psychometric_english_quantitative.pdf
- This is a full quantitative reasoning review that goes all the way up to higher math, but lower level questions are still helpfulhttp://www.pcatpracticetest.net/pcat-quantitative-ability-practice-test/
- This link takes you to a set of WritePlacer essay examples that show you what essays of all levels look like; look at all of them, but work on producing the ones that score 6, 7, or 8

- An excellent tool is the SAT practice program that is available free from Khan Academy; it is designed for SAT tests, but the content is parallel to what you will find on Accuplacer Next Generation tests!
