

Casting Call for Becquer Tales - Tale 1.3: Emerald Stare

Becquer Tales is a fantasy horror anthology audio drama inspired by the work of Spanish author Gustavo Adolfo Bécquer. Each “Tale” will be a story spanning one or more episodes, all Tales being completely standalone and independent. The original stories include supernatural and horror adjacent elements, as well as fantasy ones, so this podcast will deal with similar themes. Becquer Tales is created by Doodles V. de Castro (any pronouns)

This podcast is written as it goes, and because of this, there's no set number of episodes or characters to cast. This casting call is for the 3rd episode of Tale one, Emerald Stare. This episode will feature death and drowning. Please keep this in mind when auditioning

Audition Instructions

- Becquer tales has the mission to feature an all trans cast of voice actors. Please only audition if you identify somewhere in the trans umbrella
- No previous voice acting experience needed. We encourage new VAs to audition
- Slate your name and pronouns at the beginning of the audition
- No more than 3 takes in ABC ABC format. All takes should be in the the same file
- Submit files as mp3, named Character_YourName.mp3
- Submit files via this google forms

Becquer Tales is a hobby project and therefore will be unpaid

The deadline for auditions is August 3rd 2025, with recordings scheduled the month of August

Character:

SPIRIT (she/her)

Spirit is a lady of the lake. She resides at the bottom of the fountain, longing for women to meet and devour. She's not quite human, but this is only apparent in her ethereal nature. She's sweet, alluring, and dangerous. Looking for european transem or genderqueer VAs

Please only read out Spirit's lines. Nanda's lines are only there for guidance

NANDA:

I need to know if you love me back, if I can love you too, if you're a woman or-

SPIRIT:

Or a demon?... (chuckle) What if I was?

SPIRIT:

I'm not what the tales paint me as; I won't punish a gorgeous lady such as yourself for finding interest in me. Who could blame you?

SPIRIT:

Come with me... follow me in, Nanda, my dear. Can't you hear the rippling waves calling your name?
