

Ultra-realistic cinematic portrait of a young South Indian man standing in heavy rain, holding a large beige umbrella with a curved wooden handle in his right hand. He has thick curly black hair, a neatly trimmed beard, and a thoughtful expression while looking up toward the left. He is wearing a dark navy-blue full-sleeve button-up shirt, slightly wet from the rain, paired with light sage-green trousers. Water droplets are visible on his clothes, face, and umbrella, creating a realistic rainy atmosphere. The background is a clean off-white studio backdrop with a large deep-blue circular abstract shape behind him, giving a modern editorial look. Soft warm lighting, high contrast, natural skin tones, shallow depth of field, premium DSLR photography, 85mm lens, f/1.8, ultra-detailed textures, cinematic color grading, realistic rain particles, subtle reflections, 8K resolution, fashion magazine style, minimal composition,
