- Newsletter subject line: Worldcrunch Today:
- NL page:

[Current template: Worldcrunch Today - Rebelmouse Template (test)]

👋 !*

Welcome to Tuesday, where

*[Latvian]

💡 SPOTLIGHT

🌎 7 THINGS TO KNOW RIGHT NOW

• Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said Tuesday that Israel mistakenly killed seven World Central Kitchen aid workers in a Gaza airstrike on April 1. The IDF's sokesperson, Rear Admiral Daniel Hagari called the Israeli strike on the organization's convoy a "tragedy" that "should not have occurred." The U.S. and other allies called for an explanation, as Israeli parliament moved to censor Al Jazeera coverage of the conflict. Israel launched another airstrike April 1 on the Iranian consulate building in Damascus, Syria, killing seven people.

• Macron to host Blinken in Paris for talks on Ukraine and Gaza

• Three 12-year-old children were injured in a shooting at a school in Finland on Tuesday. A suspect, also 12, fled but was later arrested, police said. Children had just returned to classes in Vantaa, north of the Finnish capital Helsinki, after the long Easter weekend.

• Trump posts $175 million bond in New York civil fraud case as he appeals?

• DR Congo president names Judith Suminwa Tuluka as first woman PM

• Florida's top court ushers in six-week abortion ban, but voters will have their say?

• Germany to redesign Adidas soccer jersey numbering amid Nazi symbol controversy?

🗞️ FRONT PAGE

[Kiosko / Freedom Forum (front pages updated around noon) / Press reader
+ keep on eye out for foreign front pages on U.S. and add them here]

Diario Correo (Rolexgate: Six Peruvian ministers resign as lawmakers submit bid to remove president from office)

The Peruvian daily newspaper Diario Correo dedicates its front page to Inés Tello and Aldo Vásquez, the two ex-members of the National Council of Justice (JNJ). The highest interpreter of the constitution has declared partially founded the precautionary measure presented by the Parliament in March. Until the Supreme Court resolves the congressional appeal, the reinstatement of the two magistrates will remain suspended.

📰 STORY OF THE DAY

Museum kicks: How sneakers came to run the world

The new “Sneakers” exhibition in Dusseldorf features pairs that sell for six figures and explores how the simple sports shoe became a global obsession, reports Adriano Sack in German daily Die Welt.

👟 Do sneakers really belong in a museum? And wouldn’t this exhibition just feed the consumerism of young people? Curator Alina Fuchs dismissed that concern with a smile, saying that if the sneaker market were to get a boost from her exhibition, that would be quite the achievement. Every year, 20 billion shoes are produced worldwide, of which 5 billion are sneakers or sports shoes.

🇺🇸 The basic idea and shape of a pair of sneakers is simple, comparable to a T-shirt or a pair of jeans. And they are a typically American fashion item. The Dusseldorf exhibition features shoes with a market price of six figures. But even for visitors who are not interested in these records, the exhibition is a vibrant journey through pop and consumer culture in the last few decades. Of course, there is a pair of Adidas High Tops worn by Run DMC in the 1980s.

♂ Exploring the exhibition or flipping through the recently published authoritative book Sneaker Obsession gives a clear sense that the cultural history of sneakers is very male-dominated — from early rap stars to designers who have set the tone in recent years, such as Kanye West and Virgil Abloh. One exception is Berlin-based photographer Julia Schoierer, who since 2007 has been writing a blog under the name Sneakerqueen. The Dusseldorf exhibition features 20 pairs from her collection of around 1,000 pairs, some of which are kept in rented storage.

➡️ Read more on Worldcrunch.com

💬 LEXICON

Everyone in Japan will be called Sato by 2531 unless marriage law changed, says professor

📹 THIS HAPPENED VIDEO — TODAY IN HISTORY, IN ONE ICONIC PHOTO

➡️ Watch the video: THIS HAPPENED

[Link to drive]

[on Fridays]

👓 WORLDCRUNCH MAGAZINE

Our weekly digital magazine is live — Check it out: full access for subscribers!

#️⃣ BY THE NUMBERS

Record wildfires hit Venezuela during climate-driven Amazon drought

---

📣 VERBATIM

“If I change the name of your house, does it become my house?”

— Indian Foreign Minister Subrahmanyam Jaishankar said no to China's renaming of about 30 places in Arunachal Pradesh, reaffirming the state's status as an integral part of India and calling the move senseless. “If I change the name of your house, does it become my house?” he Jaishankar told reporters

“If I change the name of your house, does it become my house?” India rejects China's renaming of 30 places in Himalayan border state

“This is a tragedy that should never have occurred.” Australian PM

📸 PHOTO DU JOUR

👉 MORE FROM WORLDCRUNCH

• October 7 And The Gaza War: A Double Godsend For Political Islam — DARAJ

• Linguistic Identity, The Boundary Of Belonging Told Through Books — LA STAMPA

• Danzón v. Dementia: Mexican Seniors Turn To Dance To Maintain Their Mental Health — GLOBAL PRESS JOURNAL

📩Subscribe to WORLDCRUNCH TODAY📩

✍️ Newsletter by Anne-Sophie Goninet and Ione Gildroy

Let us know what's happening in your corner of the world!
info@worldcrunch.com

For page

✅ SIGN UP

This is our daily newsletter Worldcrunch Today, a rapid tour of the news of the day from the world's best journalism sources, regardless of language or geography.

It's easy (and free!) to sign up to receive it each day in your inbox: 👉 Sign up here

---

🚨 Emergency procedure in case you don't receive the test:

- Go to Mailchimp.com (Login: Worldcrunch / Password: wc2011) You may need to answer a security question, ask Jeff for the answer. (I only know one: First name of your maternal grandmother? The answer is: zelda)
- Click on "Campaigns" on the left.
- Check the scroll-down menu and click on "Empty List" if you want to check the test or "Worldcrunch Newsletters" to check the NL.
- The last test will be at the top of the list. If it says "Scheduled," click on "Pause and edit" and then "OK". This will lead you to a new page, click on "Send now." Same procedure for the NL if you encounter the "scheduled" problem