

Vaccine counseling may include a review of all previously administered vaccines and/or determination of which vaccines are needed. This service requires a consultation with a Family Health Practice physician and should be booked by calling the Family Health Practice appointments line.