App Name: GetLost – AI Itinerary Planner

Developer: Suprbeta

At Suprbeta, we respect and protect your privacy. This Privacy Policy explains how GetLost – AI Itinerary Planner (“GetLost,” “we,” “our,” or “us”) handles your information when you use our app.

1. Information We Collect

a. Google Sign-In

When you sign in using Google Sign-In, we receive limited profile information from Google (such as your name, email address, and profile picture).

This data is used only for authentication purposes — to identify you within the app and personalize your experience.

We do not store, sell, or share this information with anyone, including AI systems.

b. Google Analytics

We use Google Analytics for Firebase to collect anonymous usage data, such as screen views, session duration, and crash reports.

This helps us understand how users interact with the app and improve performance.

Analytics data does not include any personally identifiable information.

2. How We Use Information

We use the limited data collected to:

- Authenticate users securely through Google Sign-In.
- Analyze aggregated usage patterns to improve app quality.

We do not:

- Store personal data on our own servers.
- Share personal information with any AI model or third-party service.
- Sell or rent your data under any circumstances.

3. Data Storage and Security

- All authentication and analytics data are handled securely by Google under their privacy infrastructure.
- GetLost does not maintain its own database of user information.
- Personal info is never sent to, processed by, or used in AI itinerary generation. The AI only works with non-identifiable itinerary preferences you provide in-app (e.g., “3 days in Paris” or “hiking destinations near Tokyo”).
