

What is your Current State and why is it painful/frustrating?

The current state I am in is that I am 17 and not putting everything into because I'm scared of moving further away from my family relationship-wise and somewhat psychically as well due to the fact my mom doesn't want me around because she feels like I betrayed her after a lifetime at least felt like it but I am working hard to learn to become a wealthy high valued man working to maintain a great relationship with my father and working to keep my relationship with my mother it is painful because I don't feel like we are going to succeed as a family and I want everyone to understand that they will all be taken care of.

What is your future Dream State and what makes it desirable/exciting?

My future dream state is to have enough value to bring my family to peace so that they don't get disappointed or help them to the best of my abilities and I want to be able to leave a print on the world for everyone to remember the Pacheco name.
