

Thanks to Joy Arden for the informative and inspiring talk on how to use GIS in horticulture! Joy is Landscape Curator at Bayard Cutting Arboretum here on Long Island and is currently working on mapping the trees on Hofstra University's campus. Thanks also to Dr. Craig Dalton for inviting her and to the Department of Global Studies and Geography, and Mu Kappa - Hofstra's chapter of the international geographical honor society Gamma Theta Upsilon - for sponsoring the talk.

