

Cityside Partner Organizations

Over the past five years, Cityside Program Director Joe Baer has developed relationships with an incredible range of organizations in Providence. These professionals generously donate their time to meet with and share their expertise with our students becoming, in effect, adjunct teachers. Community partners create a heightened sense of accountability as students develop project work. All student groups have met extraordinary people who are doing work that benefits the community - the connections with people have been rich, varied, and educational. Maintaining an awareness of city changes, our list of partners is continually developing, with new partnerships added each year. Here is a listing of many current partner organizations.
