1. INTRODUCTION (12 pt)

Introduction describes the background of the problem, the urgency of the research, and the objectives. This section answers the question of why the research was conducted. Section headings should be concise and numbered sequentially, using a decimal system for subsections. Emphasized words should be italicized, but such emphasis should be sparingly used.

1.1 SECOND-LEVEL HEADING

The next level of heading is boldface with upper and lower case letters. The heading is flushed left with the left margin.

2. METHODS

Methods explain how the research was conducted. Include detailed information on the study design, population, sample, instruments, and data analysis so that the study can be replicated. Equations should be italicized and numbered consecutively beginning with (1) to the end of the paper, including any appendices. The number should be enclosed in parenthesis and set flush right on the same line as the equation

$$X+Y = Z$$

3. RESULT

The results section presents the data findings objectively. The data is typically presented using tables or graphs without subjective interpretation. Each figure and table should be referred to in the content of your manuscript (see Figure 1 and Table 2 for illustration). Each figure should have a caption below the figure, while the caption of a table should appear at the top of the table. The words in each caption should be written in lowercase except for the first character of the first word. All figures should be numbered consecutively and captioned.

The caption of the figure should appear at the bottom of the figure

Table 1.

A table should have a clear caption at the top of the table

No.	Result1 (minimum 8pt)		Result2
	Shop 1	Shop 2	Shop 1	Shop 2	Shop 3
1	2.2	3.4	3.2	5.4	4.4

Please submit tables as editable text and not as images. Number tables consecutively by their appearance in the text and place any table notes above the table body. Be sparing in tables and ensure that the data presented in them do not duplicate results described elsewhere in the article. Please avoid using vertical lines.

4. DISCUSSION

The discussion section interprets the research findings, compares them with theory or previous studies, and discusses the implications and limitations of the research

5. CONCLUSION

The conclusion essentially contains a summary of the main points of the paper and a direct answer to the research question or objectives. This section serves to reinforce the main ideas, tie together each point discussed in a logical sequence

CITATION AND REFERENCE

The styles of references and citations should follow the APA Style. It uses an author-date system for in-text citations and a reference list at the end of the paper to list all sources.

In-text citations:

APA style uses author-date citations within the text of your paper. This includes the author's last name, and year of publication.

Example Format:

In-text citation:

(Smith, 2023) - Simple citation for one author

(Jones & Brown, 2022) - Citation for two authors

(Smith et al., 2021) - Citation for three or more authors, using "et al." after the first author's name in subsequent citations.

(Jackson, 2019; Sapolsky, 2017; Svendsen & Løber, 2020) – Citation from more than one references

Reference list entry (example for a journal article):

Smith, J. (2023). Title of article. Journal Title, volume(issue), page numbers.

Reference list:

A comprehensive list of all sources cited in your paper is placed at the end, alphabetized by the first author's last name.
