

Apply to be a Grady Ambassador

If you're interested in serving as a Grady College Ambassador for 2016-2017, it's time to make your wishes known. Applications will be accepted starting Monday, Feb. 22 until 5 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 25.

The Grady College Ambassadors are a dynamic team of student leaders who serve as official hosts and ambassadors for the Grady College of Journalism & Mass Communication.

The group's goal is to present a positive and lasting image of Grady College and its students to all constituents. Ambassadors have a strong presence at college events, lead tours and interact with alumni and potential donors, special guests and speakers, and prospective Grady College students and their parents.

Application Procedures

Applications will be available near the Grady Ambassador board, located across from room 207. This application must be supplemented with your résumé. Completed materials should be submitted to the drop off box, near room 207, by 5p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 25. Your application is not considered complete without all required documents. Those selected to interview will be notified by Feb. 29.

Membership in the Grady Ambassador program is open to all full-time undergraduate students enrolled in the Grady College, with a GPA of 3.0 or higher.

The Grady Ambassador organization consists of 21 - 25 undergraduate students who report directly to the college's director of special events and student leadership, Karen Andrews, who also serves as the adviser for the group.
