

Just today, I was talking to a friend about his missed chance to become a race car driver.

He said that it was all just luck, but I had to ask Dr. Google, and lo and behold: WMR!

I don't want to beat around the bush, I'm a copywriter, and I've noticed that you have a solid online presence and a lot of potential, but you're missing the necessary reach.

I'd like to help you improve your online presence and make sure your advertising reaches the right people.

Here's the deal: I'll do all the work, and in return, I just want your feedback on my website when it's finished.

Sound fair?

Let's talk about how I can help you specifically.

Best, Pascal