A	I can infer that the cause of the riot was because the British judge allowed Maria to return to her birth mother, even though she was raised by her adoptive parents. This caused the Muslim community to fight against the British	"danger of handing over because she was already a converted Muslim, handing her over to the convent."	This suggest that the riot was a result of the Malay's built up anger against the British government.
B	I can infer that they parasitised the Dutch law and Christianity over the Muslim during the 1950s. From the sentence "brown noted that Maria had no capacity to become Muslim therefore showing my inference from source b."
C	I can infer that the cause of the riot was because of a newspaper of the insensitive law separating Maria from amiah.	the newspaper stated that the law separated Maria from Aminah, aminah collapsed at the parting while Maria had to stay at a convent's girls home.

D	I can infer that the riot was caused by religious tensions, where Maria, who converted to being Muslim, got returned to her Dutch Catholic parents which angered the Muslim community as they felt that the decision disrespected their religion.	As large crowds of Muslims gathered outside the court after the court ruled that Maria would be placed in a Catholic convent and will be returned to her Dutch parents.	This suggests that the riot was a result of the Muslims feeling that their religion was being disrespected and being ignored by the British authorities.	This source was published to educate the What happened during the riot?	The ruling by Justice Brown caused the Christians and Muslims in Singapore to feel angry and the riots lasted over 3 days, resulting in the death of 18 people.		During the riot, more than 10 000 students from chinese-medium schools gathered at the depot to support the striking workers. police used water hoses and batons to try and control the crowd but to no avail and many were left injured	The students took over their schools and demanded re-registration of the SCMSU before the government ordered expulsion of 142 students from several schools on suspicion of anti-government activities, causing students to camp at school as protest. On 24th October, Lim Yew Hock demanding that students leave the school premises by 8'o clock the following evening. This time, with support of the unions, the students were more defiant and ready to fight to the bitter end, with large crowds gathering out of schools. The demonstration turn violent when a mob outside Chung Cheng High School confronted the police. The riots spread across the island and continued for three days, resulting in troops from Malaya being called to restore order.
