

Bionote:

Mark Rodrigo D. Mendros is a licensed Medical Technologist and freelance review lecturer and coach in various MT review centers in Metro Manila and key cities in the province. He obtained his Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology degree at Centro Escolar University-Manila in 2006. He is also a candidate for the Master of Science in Medical Technology at the University of Santo Tomas. He's research is focused on Multi Drug Resistance Gene Regulator in selected non-Albicans Candida spp. In addition, he is also pursuing a Master's degree in Management in Public Health Administration to hone his managerial skills in the Public Health sector. He currently holds the position of Coordinator for Internship at the School of Medical Technology. He is also a lecturer at the Department of Medical Technology of Bulacan State University-Malolos and San Rafael Campus.