House party? I don't get invited to parties. I work from home in tech. How do i get out of that trap? I communicate basically zero with women and don't know how to change the contexts or environment to change that Darrin does not have access to women and is a current loner. He seeks to change his lonely lifestyle and get more women. He works from home for his job, basically staying at home for the majority of his time.

Current State:

Darrin is lonely and does not have access to the sexual marketplace. He only lives alone and all by himself and is trying to find ways to get communication with the opposite sex. He seeks to get the respect from women and enjoy their company after all these lonely years.

Dream State:

Darrin has access to women and is enjoying an abundance of them. He is no longer alone and has a lot of fun with pretty women. He has respect from women now and can no longer be considered an "incel" from them.

Roadblock:

Darrin's roadblock is that he has no social life. He just stays at home and works without talking to anyone basically. He needs to find ways to connect with people more specifically women and become more sociable not just live life in isolation.

Solution:

Darren finds ways to connect with women by cold approaching women in the night club or daygame. He is taught multiple ways on how to get access to women just by approaching them anywhere, or connecting with other social circles.

Product:

A New York visit to a 4 day workshop which teaches Darren to overcome this problem of being alone in the house and having troubles connecting with women.

Purpose Of Copy:

To promote the New York Workshop and to make Darren aware of the solution to his problem... He has a newsletter which sometimes gets sent to spam so their email marketing can do much better.
