

States that have the most fun

States that have the most fun are the ones that offer a unique experience for their residents and visitors. In this article, we'll take a look at the top US states you can have a fun-filled vacation. With so many amazing places to visit, it can be difficult to decide where you want to spend your holiday. We've put up a list of the top states that consistently offer visitors and residents fun times. From amusement parks to natural adrenaline rushes, these states will help you find your inner child.

1. California

California is a state in the northwestern part of the United States. It is bordered on the north by Oregon, on the east by Nevada, on the south by the Pacific Ocean, and on the west by Arizona and the Mexican state of Baja California. With a population of 38 million people, California is one of the world's most populous and ethnically diverse states. The northern part of the state has frequent rainfall and lots of trees, while the southern part of the state has lesser trees and more deserts.

The climate of California is mild, and while winters can be chilly, temperatures rarely fall below 30 degrees. California is popular for its natural beauty, therefore it is a popular tourist destination. Visitors enjoy activities such as hiking, skiing, camping, sightseeing, and water sports.

Source: Wikipedia

2. Florida

Florida is the largest and most populous state in the southeastern United States. As of 2019, Florida was estimated to contain 21.48 million people. It occupies most of peninsular Florida and the southeastern coastal plain and shares a border with the Gulf of Mexico to the south and Georgia and Alabama to the east.

Florida is famous for its warm climate and miles of sandy beaches. Florida's tropical climate also makes it a popular destination for retirees, as well as winter visitors, who can enjoy pleasant temperatures and scenery for most of the year. Florida is a popular tourist destination as visitors enjoy watersports, hiking, fishing, hunting, camping, and golfing.

Source: Whereig.com

3. Nevada

Nevada is in the middle of the desert, about 260 miles from the California coast and 500 miles from the Grand Canyon. Nevada's population is about 3.09 million, and its largest city is Las Vegas, with about 651,000 people. The state is surrounded by mountains, including the tallest in the lower 48 states, Mount Whitney, at 14,494 feet.

Nevada is known for its casinos and gambling. The climate ranges from hot in summer to very cold in winter. Nevada has year-round sunshine that allows visitors to enjoy outdoor activities such as hiking, climbing, horseback riding, and other outdoor sports all year round.

Source: Wikipedia, Britannica, NationalGeographic

4. New York

New York is the largest and most populous state in the US. Its territory extends from Long Island on its eastern shore to western Ohio. As of 2021, New York has an estimated population of 20.9 million residents.

New York has 24 boroughs, plus five smaller islands. Manhattan, the most densely populated borough, is 75 square miles. New York's climate is temperate. The city is home to many museums, art galleries, and libraries, and contains some of the world's most visited tourist attractions such as Times Square, the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, Central Park, the Empire State Building, the Brooklyn Bridge, the Woolworth Building, and One World Trade Center.

Source:Google,Wikipedia,Worldpopulationreview.com, un.com

5. Texas

The state of Texas is located in South Central United States, bordering Mexico to the south and New Mexico and Oklahoma to the north. Texas has the lowest population density of any state in the U.S with over half of its 29 million people living in and around Houston.

Texas' climate is humid subtropical, with mild winters and hot summers. The average high temperature is 71°F in July and 57°F in January. Texas is famous for its cowboy culture, country music, and the University of Texas Longhorns. Visitors enjoy various outdoor activities such as swimming, boating, skiing, camping, and hiking.

Source: Wikipedia, Nationsline

6. Colorado

Colorado is the fifth largest of the 50 US states, encompassing 64,586 square miles (169,569 square km). It is bordered by Wyoming to the north and east, Utah to the south and west, and

New Mexico to the southeast. Colorado is the 13th most populous state, with 5.7 million residents.

The climate is dry in the summer and mild in the winter. Colorado is famous for its natural beauty and outdoor activities. It is popular with skiers and snowboarders. It also attracts people interested in hiking, biking, rock climbing, and white-water rafting.

Uncovercolorado.com, newworldencyclopedia.org

7. Illinois

Illinois is situated in the Midwestern United States and is the fifth-largest state in the union, with an area of 69,372 square miles. It is bordered to the north by Wisconsin, to the east by Indiana, to the south by Missouri, and to the west by Iowa. The topography of Illinois is very flat, with most of the state being under 500 feet above sea level. The highest point of the state is 1,606 feet above sea level.

Many parts of the state have a very warm summer, with high temperatures reaching into the 90 to 100 degree Fahrenheit range. Visitors to Illinois can enjoy many outdoor recreational activities, including fishing, boating, biking, camping, and hiking.

Food in Illinois is very diverse. This includes everything from pizza to Italian food. Many famous restaurants are located throughout Illinois.

Source: Geography.name, wikitravel.com

8. Washington

Washington is the capital and largest city in the U.S. state of Washington. With an estimated population of 7,681,355 in 2019, it is the most populated state in the Pacific Northwest and the 12th-most populated state in the country. Located on the eastern edge of the Cascade Range, Washington is bordered to the west by Oregon, to the north by Canada, to the south by California, and to the east by Idaho.

Washington's climate is mild, with average high temperatures in July at around 80 degrees Fahrenheit. The Evergreen State is known for its natural beauty, its relative political stability, and for the Space Needle, the Space Museum, and the University of Washington. Washington's many monuments, memorials, and museums draw tens of millions of visitors a year.

Wikipedia, choosewashingtonstate.com, newworldencyclopedia.org

9. Minnesota

Minnesota is the 26th largest state in the United States, but it's by far America's second least populous state, with 5.6 million residents. Minnesota is 99,878 square miles, which is larger than Alaska and Hawaii. Minnesota has 11,698 miles of roads, 120,653 miles of streams, and 180,255 lakes, making it one of America's most topographically diverse states.

Minnesota is also called the Land of 10,000 Lakes. The abundant natural resources make it a perfect destination for outdoor enthusiasts in search of recreational activities. For example, Minnesota's proximity to boreal forests and a variety of lakes makes it a destination for many great fishing opportunities.

Source: Wikipedia, Britannica

10. Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania is one of the five states in the great Appalachian Valley that stretches from Maine to Alabama. Its location, in the center of the country, makes Pennsylvania an important crossroads, and its mountains provide a natural barrier to keep out those unwanted outsiders. Pennsylvania is 48,676 square miles, about the size of the United Kingdom. Pennsylvania is the nation's fourth most populous state, with a population of 12.8 million.

The climate is humid continental, with cold winters, but milder temperatures in coastal areas and the southern part of the state. The state's natural beauty, interesting history, laid-back population, and wealth of recreational activities make Pennsylvania one of the MOST fun states in America! In Pennsylvania, tourists can get to visit all the important historical sites as well as enjoy water parks, amusement parks, and beaches.

Source: Wikipedia, arc.gov, Britannica