Market Analysis and Insights

Dental sealants market is expected to gain market growth in the forecast period of 2021 to 2028. Data Bridge Market Research analyses the market to grow at a CAGR of 11.95% in the above mentioned forecast period. Rising demand for dental restorations and cosmetic dentistry along with advancements in dental materials in terms of science and technology drives the dental sealants market.

Dental sealants are also known as pit and fissure sealant which is used to avoid the tooth decay. They generally consist of plastic material that is placed on the chewing surface of the teeth and protect teeth from bacteria and acids that cause tooth decay. Pit and fissures are the area where they generally occur as they are hard to clean areas and bacteria easily get stuck in them. Dental sealants usually occur in children with high tooth decay risk.

Rising geriatric population all over the globe is the vital factor escalating the market growth, also rising demand for cosmetic dental treatment among people, increased prevalence of dental caries coupled with the rising need to curb healthcare costs, increasing income level, rising health awareness, growing dental tourism in emerging markets and increasing demand for cosmetic dental treatment, are the major factors among others driving the dental sealants market. Moreover, increasing advancement in dental adhesive systems and procedures, rising low penetration rate of dentistry in emerging countries, rising research and development activities in the market and increasing technological advancements and modernization in the healthcare devices will further create new opportunities for dental sealants market in the forecasted period of 2021-2028.

However, increasing cost of dental care treatments and rising shortage of dental professionals are the major factors among others which will obstruct the market growth, while rising stringent and time-consuming regulatory policies will further challenge the growth of dental sealants market in the forecast period mentioned above.
