

Manchester from Kersal Moor, 1852. William Wyld.

Among the prominent social consequences of industrialization were urbanization and mechanization. Between 1750 and 1850, the English city of Manchester swelled from twenty thousand to four hundred thousand, becoming a notorious example of overcrowding and squalor.

→ What two ways of life are contrasted in this painting?