Meet the next generation in technology!

“The Falcon”

The Falcon delivers more than a dozen points of ball and club performance data with each shot – the most measured data points of any other overhead-mounted launch monitor in the market.

The newest monitor delivers a massive hitting area with the utmost shot-measuring accuracy and reliability, courtesy of the same Quadrascopic technology found in the award-winning GCQuad.

The Falcon is the new gold standard in overhead launch monitor space.

The most accurate technology available today!

Falcon reviews:

- Oh, let me tell you about the Falcon Overhead Launch Monitor from Foresight Golf – it's not just a launch monitor; it's a game-changer, a marvel, a stroke of genius in the world of golf technology!
- First and foremost, let's talk about precision. The Falcon doesn't just measure your shots; it dissects them with surgical precision. It's like having a golf scientist by your side, analyzing every aspect of your swing and ball flight with the kind of accuracy that leaves you questioning if it's secretly from the future.
- The Falcon spits out numbers with the enthusiasm of a mathematician on caffeine. Launch angle, spin rate, ball speed, clubhead speed – you name it, and the Falcon serves it up on a silver platter. It's like having a personal golf oracle, revealing the secrets of your swing in exquisite detail.
