

Subject Line: He cried internally since he struggled to heal his sick grandma...
(Hook, Story, Offer)

As a human dies each second on Earth, will you have accomplished a life of purpose to be satisfied with your time on earth or be filled with regret?

In poor living environments we had a grown adult male 30s who is now worried about his grandma's health as she is getting weaker by the day in her 50s.

It all lies upon this individual to make the decision in taking initiative on whether or not his grandma will be provided needed medication.

If the grown man had not been a weak, complacent, low life degenerate lazy underperformer in all those years of living rent free comfort then his grandma would not have overworked her body for years providing for the grown man.

You would think hard times create strong men as his mother died when he was just a child.

Well this weakling does not deserve the title to be considered a "man" as he even has no clue how his 2 children even look as he abandoned them to never return before they were even born.

It's well obvious on how cowards function to live a life with no purpose or desire to care enough to improve themselves after plenty of times tragedy has struck them.

He is now near his sick grandma who is in deep pain as her body continues to become rotten and she asks him "Grandson I have cared for you, but I'm quickly losing faith as months go by you are incapable of providing me with the medication to cure my broken body."

The worthless grandson shed a tear sighing with no response and walked out the decaying house leaving his grandma questioning whether or not she will survive but only god knows whether or not his Conquest is achieved.

Let other human beings' mistakes be a lesson to not live a powerless minimal effort complacent suffering life not being able to save your dying loved one due to your inadequacy.

Your god knows deep down you are not living to your truest potential, and trying your hardest to avoid being a peasant.

Do not waste the precious time you have in this world just to be filled with eternal regret from knowing all it took was clicking a single button to gain access to a book that will ensure you become financially successful to save your dying loved one's life.
