Bonus Quest Idea From Noisy Snowball!

Island: Game Show Island

Name: Top Or Drop!

Idea:
Robots and humans have started working together again. But as soon as you were about to leave, an ad appeared on the screen. It looks to be from some sort of baking game show. The bot on the screen, named Chef Grill, says that robots and humans can't work together if they can't work together while cooking. But he does allow any human to compete on his game show, and if they win, he might have a change of heart.
To get an invite, you must travel to a farm with the jet. There, the human boy and robot girl will panic, asking for help to catch runaway eggs. You agree, and get sent into a mini game, where you have to catch all the eggs before they smash into a rock(Can change)at the end. After that, the human boy says he doesn't have time to compete on the baking game show, so he gives you the invite.
When you start the game show, Chef Grill will say the title and explain how the show works. Here, you have to play a sort of memory game, to remember what ingredients to put in what order. But, some of the recipes you can't see, showing that Chef Grill has rigged the contest. Luckily, Holmes was given access to one of the computers in the game show set, thanks to Dr. Langley. Holmes can give access to the recipes that you can't see, but only one each time, and you have to keep an eye out to make sure Chef Grill doesn't see the two of you. If you get caught, you have to start over.
After you win the game show, Chef Grill will be impressed that you did so well, but Holmes decides to reveal himself. Shocked to see this kind of teamwork, Chef Grill decides that maybe humans and robots working together wouldn't be so bad.

Reward:
I was thinking of a chef outfit, but fitted with extra features like extra spatulas and secret compartments to hold spices.

Characters:

Chef Grill: The cooking game show host, and the main antagonist of the side quest.

Holmes: He helps in the cooking show for recipes that you can't view, and acts like a buddy character.

Human boy: He used to work for the farm as a slave, but is now the co-owner with the lady robot, and is the one to give you the invite.

Girl robot: She was the human boy's owner, but now works along with him, and she tells players what they need help with.

Dr. Langley: He gets mentioned by Holmes because he helped to break through the security system.

Other contestants: They're just random robots who also want to win, to show that robots are still superior.

Art:

This shows the scene of how the game show would be played out! Cheerful Panda, Aka Cheer(One of my ocs), is the contestant!

That's my submission for the side quest contest!

-Noisy Snowball