

Word	Definition	Example Sentence	Synonym	Antonym	Chinese Translation
accelerate	to increase in speed	The car began to accelerate as it entered the highway.	speed up	decelerate	加速 careen	to move swiftly and in an uncontrolled way	The car careened around the corner at high speed.	sway	stabilize	急转弯 harrowing	extremely distressing or terrifying	The survivors told a harrowing tale of the shipwreck.	distressing	calming	令人痛苦的 enterprising	showing initiative and resourcefulness	She is an enterprising young woman who started her own business.	resourceful	unambitious	有进取心的 colossal	extremely large or great	The museum boasts a colossal collection of ancient artifacts.	immense	tiny	巨大的 converge	to come together from different directions	All the paths converge at the central square.	meet	diverge	汇集 falter	to lose strength or momentum	His steps began to falter as he neared the finish line.	waver	strengthen	衰弱
primitive	relating to an early stage of development	The tools they used were quite primitive compared to today's technology.	ancient	modern	原始的
decipher	to convert a code into normal language	Scientists were able to decipher the ancient manuscript.	decode	encrypt	破译 crescendo	a gradual increase in loudness in a piece of music	The music reached a crescendo, filling the hall with sound.	climax	decrease	渐强