

DIC Format: Wait what? The gesture tips outclassing the average man...

There is a reason why the top 1% of men receive ALL the attention.

It's not their fame. It's not their money. It's not their job.

Simply these men capture the room with one gesture.

Standing them out from the herds of mediocre men.

And boosting their self-esteem in projecting a valuable man.

Discover the one gesture the top 1% of men use to outclass the rest.

PAS Format: Your style SUCKS: The reason costing you THOUSANDS of $$$...

When looking at a room, who do you see getting all the opportunities?

Is it the chad with a chiseled body that's well groomed and dressed professionally?

Someone that men want to shake hands with and women would chase.

Or...

Is it the frail, scrawny man dressed in boyish, baggy clothes that no one takes seriously?

Here's the truth,

How you present yourself affects how the world accepts you.

Otherwise women wouldn't reject you by looking the other way

Or men simply ignoring your proposals.

If you're determined to make the effort to become a man WORTH of opportunities,

HSO Format: How I 5x my success by THROWING the wardrobe away...

First impressions can break or make ALL of life's deserving moments

A realization I came to after years of struggle coming to its peak.

I had recently graduated from college in pursuit of landing my dream job.

With the goal of being the ONLY memorable candidate...

But ended up as the first rejectee.

Even worse, I became memorable upon the dreadful attire I called "style".

All while the pretty receptionist complimented the other men.

Now, I was left with the choice to either give up looking as a bum

Or

Level up my style to reach my success.

Fornutaley, I had discovered an elite's wardrobe system that not only commanded my presence in the office but 5x the rate of success I would've had.

[Plus bounce back and attain the receptionist's interest]

And I have my mentor to thank for that.
