

Lettre au futur enfant

Dear future baby,

Right now, you're still just a promise in our hearts, but we hope more than anything in the world that you become our reality. We've long imagined the moment when you'll enter our lives, the instant we'll hold you for the first time in our arms and wrap you in all our love and tenderness.

It's going to be quite the adventure, but we're ready! We hope you'll have the chance to meet your grandparents who live nearby. They're wonderful people who have supported us throughout our journey. They too are ready, and they already love you!

Often, our thoughts turn to you, whether it's hearing the joyful laughter of a child on the street, observing the everyday scenes of young parents, or catching the tender, proud, sometimes worried, or embarrassed look of a parent facing their child's adventures.

You'll have the chance to learn Italian with "Babbo" (dad in Tuscan) and French with Papa. From a young age, you'll also start to discover English, allowing you to communicate with the extraordinary person who carried you in her belly in Canada, while connecting you to your roots which we are so proud of. We look forward with joy to returning together to this country when you wish.

We can't wait to share with you the little everyday joys: the delicious dishes prepared by Babbo, gardening moments with Papa, bike rides and mountain hikes in the Pyrenees with Papi and Mami, or days at the beach and in the Tuscan countryside with Nonna and Nonno.

Perhaps when you're a bit older, you'll be able to discover surfing and skateboarding with your uncle, aunt, and cousins, but be careful!!

Of course, it won't be easy every day, but we'll always be there for you, and we'll always do our best to raise you, protect you, and accompany you in this world so that you can find your way and grow up happy, safe, and peaceful.
