

Fandomless OC

Adaptable to verses such as TWD, TLOU and Peaky Blinders

FC: Adria Arjona

Face Claim: Adria Arjona

Name: Mariana Alvarez

Age: 20s-30s (can go older depending the SLs)

Gender: Female

Sexuality: Bisexual (no lean)

Ethnicity: Latina (can be flexible depending on setting)

Languages: Fluent in Spanish and English

Occupation: Medic (can vary slightly by universe: field medic, nurse, or self-taught survivalist)

Personality Traits:

Resilient – She withstands physical and emotional challenges, never backing down when faced with adversity.

Resourceful – Skilled in using what little she has to survive and solve problems.

Compassionate, but Hardened – While caring by nature, the losses she's faced have made her more practical and selective about who she helps.

Loyal, but Cautious – Trusts few but remains fiercely loyal to those she considers family or close allies.

Independent – Prefers to rely on herself and has no problem navigating dangerous or unstable situations on her own.

Background:

Early Life: Mariana Alvarez was born into a modest, hardworking family. Her father was a mechanic, and her mother was a nurse, and they both passed on essential life skills to her from an early age. Growing up in a rural or working-class neighborhood, she was no stranger to adversity, experiencing firsthand the difficulties of poverty and political instability.

She learned how to fix things from her father and medical knowledge from her mother, often helping out in various ways when her mother became ill. Mariana's early life was shaped by her role as a caretaker, learning self-reliance while caring for her family.

Turning Point: Mariana's life took a sharp turn when she lost her family under tragic circumstances—whether due to violence, political unrest, or an outbreak (depending on the universe). This event forced her to grow up quickly and become fiercely independent, with no one left to rely on but herself.

She left her hometown and became a wanderer, using the skills she'd learned to survive in a world that had little sympathy for the vulnerable.

Medical Background: With her mother's background in nursing and her natural instinct to help others, Mariana developed a wide range of medical skills. In a world where medical professionals were scarce, she became a vital resource to anyone lucky enough to gain her trust. She can patch up wounds, handle basic surgeries, and stabilize trauma injuries—skills that have kept her alive and valuable across different settings.

Core Skills:

1. Survivalist – Mariana knows how to find food, shelter, and supplies in even the most desperate situations. She has a knack for using whatever's available to her advantage.
2. Combat Skills – Over the years, she's learned how to defend herself through hand-to-hand combat and basic weapon training, whether with firearms in modern/post-apocalyptic settings or makeshift weapons in more primitive conditions.
3. Tactical Thinker – Mariana isn't just a survivor; she's able to assess situations quickly and create strategies for survival, whether navigating chaotic cities or dangerous wilderness.
4. Medical Expertise – Her background as a medic makes her indispensable. She can treat everything from basic injuries to more complex medical problems.
5. Bilingual (Spanish/English) – Her ability to communicate fluently in both languages gives her an edge in diverse environments.

Personality:

Mariana's experiences have shaped her into a pragmatic and often cautious person. While she is capable of great compassion, her loss and the harshness of her surroundings have made her more selective in who she lets into her life. She is fiercely loyal to the few she trusts, but gaining her trust is no easy feat.

She's independent, preferring to act on her own terms and trusting her instincts to get her out of difficult situations. While she doesn't seek leadership roles, she often finds herself in them due to her resourcefulness and calm under pressure.

Adaptations Across Universes:

The Walking Dead/The Last of Us (Post-Apocalyptic Settings):

Mariana would likely have been a member of a small survivor group, initially relying on her medical skills to help those around her. After losing her family and seeing betrayal within her group, she became a wanderer, preferring solitude or very small, tight-knit groups. Her medical expertise makes her valuable, though she's learned to be cautious about who she helps.

Peaky Blinders (1920s Era):

In this universe, Mariana could be working as a nurse or even a barmaid, using her medical background as a cover for deeper involvement in the underground. She might work with—or against—criminal organizations like the Peaky Blinders, leveraging her street smarts and ability to survive in the rough world of Birmingham. Her independence and pragmatism would make her an asset to any gang she chose to align herself with.

Fandomless/General Settings:

In general dystopian or survival settings, Mariana continues to be a self-sufficient survivor. Whether part of a small, tight-knit group or a wanderer in a lawless world, she uses her medical and combat skills to stay alive and protect those she cares about.
