Powers or Species Traits/Abilities:*

LoreFolk is flexible in accepting all types of species and powers related to folklore, mythology, legend, fairy tales, etc. We ask that you do your best to make sure your Species Traits or Powers are balanced with weaknesses. We recommend, for example, that you have at least 1 weakness for every Trait or Power listed. We recommend 2 weaknesses for every Major Power or Trait. This is not a hard rule and will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

Appearance and Personality:

Appearance:

If your character is an in-human creature utilizing a magical item to maintain a human form, please include descriptions of both.

This section does not need to be long, but must include enough details so another player can picture your character.

Suggestions include eye color, hair color, skin color, height, weight, noticeable distinguishing features (what's the first thing someone looking at your character would notice), normal manner of dress, way of speaking, etc.

Players may include images that meet our Image Requirements in addition to a written description. Please, no NSFW images.

Personality:

Please provide a description of your character's personality. This section does not need to be long, but must include enough details so another player can picture your character's interactions. Suggestions

Include: How does your character interact with the world on a daily basis? What drives your character to move forward, what does your character like or dislike? How does your character interact with friends, enemies, strangers?

History:

Please include a brief history of your character. This does not need to be extensive, but should detail a bit about your character's development. You must include how your character wound up in Lore: Does your character already reside in Lore? Did your character stumble upon Lore by accident?
