Mentions of Suicide, Self harm, SA, Blood, injuries, and incest (yes you read this correctly).

If you are uncomfortable with these topics, please get off this doc NOW, but you are able to handle it, please stay but take breaks from reading.

This document is made by multiple people, so writing styles may be different.
It is centered towards a daybreak creator— Noah, a 14 year old boy accused of several actions, the one this document covers is about his failed attempt, and multiple other incidents.

If you are uncomfortable with this topic please get off the doc NOW it's for your own good.

Just to be clear I don't want anyone to harras or send mean stuff to him were just trying to prove his lies and odd behavior in this docs we'll be talking about

- 1.noah faking his suicide
- 2.alyah account
- 3.gabriel account
- 4.noah past actions
- 5.closing

The purpose of putting this together is to address a pattern of lies, contradictions, and behavior that has affected multiple people and caused real confusion and harm. This is simply a collection of information, timelines, and observations that we believe should be acknowledged and taken seriously.

More than anything, we hope Noah takes the time to reflect on everything that has happened, recognize the impact his actions have had on others, and understand that many people were directly and indirectly affected by this. This is not about humiliation or public punishment. It is about accountability, honesty, and making space for the people who were hurt, misled, or dragged into situations they did not ask to be part of!

We are sharing this with the intention of documenting concerns, clearing up inconsistencies, and giving context to behavior that has raised questions for a long time. We hope this leads to acknowledgment, accountability, and awareness of the consequences these actions have had on multiple parties.

Now the weirdest part in alyah's text is "he lost a lot of blood and he's currently in the hospital"

On may 24-23 2026 noah came back and said that he failed :

While also saying that he was able to convince them that he's fine?!?! What do you mean you were able to convince your parents and professionals??

And this doesn't make sense, after 9 days he's somehow able to use his devices to post on TikTok, let alone even use TikTok?

Noah WOULDN'T be discharged in JUST 9 days. A 9 day hospital discharge is completely impossible in this scenario because it violates the rigid, non-negotiable timelines required for acute medical stabilization, forensic reporting, and legal safety mandates. From a purely physical standpoint, severe blood loss combined with chronic starvation and abuse from Noah's parents, leaves the 14-year-old boy (Noah) in a life-threatening metabolic and cardiovascular crisis. Medical teams cannot safely reintroduce nutrition overnight (can include shrunk heart muscle because he is supposedly STARVED, underweight and anorexic.)

(TW here for: SA, incest and Child abuse)

(Noah has also said that his uncle SA'd him, and parents are abusive. Because of that CPS and Law enforcement would be in this aswell, interviewing and questioning him, AND THEN there would be the psychiatric process, this is a very complex and serious case that cannot end in just 9 days, this would take 1-3 months, you can find the messages of him saying he was SA'd thru a creator named Kimchi)

Evidence that Noah said his parents are abusive and conversation with kimchi:

Ok i know im not alone but still please you shouldnt of added that, it could be triggering for many sa victims like me and others, please dont say that, also im going to bed because i am tired, i was crying rn bc u saying that brought back the trauma and rlly triggered me. Please say stuff while i sleep and ill answer in the morning, i hope your happy with making a teenager cry while your an adult. also you triggred me at the start since my uncle who sa'd me forced me to eat kimchi all the time, just thought u should know :c pls dont be angry, i havent done anything wrong ok

Also you guys need to read this :

hi hi hello!! im [REDACTED] (please blurr if you are planning to post!) and this situation about Noah is kind getting outta hand...
most likely Noah's suicide attempt is faked :((!!

I'm a suicide patient as well (around 2022 in the big America, me and my family moved back to the Philippines for my Grandpa and Grandma), I've attempted almost the same as how alyah and Noah described his/her attempt was (in which was heavy blood loss, but can be different) and the timeline does NOT add up for the time of posting and such...

I was in the psych ward during (if my notes are correct) the 5th day until the 14th day! I was heavily NOT allowed to access the internet during those days especially because the reason of my attempt was cyberbullying! almost the same as Noah's.

Since it's the 11th day after the suicide attempt was posted I can assume that its about 6 to 8 days they're in the psych ward?

In the psych ward, we were heavily monitored lol... I couldn't have full Internet access until I got discharged! We could only play games with the others in there and sometimes offline games if I was behaving, so seeing as Noah is playing daybreak today makes me kiinddaa suspicious from my hospital we were NOT allowed to post on social media as they were concerned about any further interaction as we might get to media that makes us relapse (or smh like that) or get cyberbullied again. Especially in the first few weeks in the psych ward.

please note that this is most likely!!! there are different policies for different hospitals! I was in [REDACTED] (please blur of you're planning to post!) when this happened... so my claims might not be as accurate!

Take note that the person who sent this was hospitalized in America, where Noah is aswell.

I also wanted to briefly speak on how unusual this entire situation feels to me personally.

According to Alyah, Noah experienced significant blood loss.

If that is true, then combined with Noah also being underweight and anorexic, it feels difficult to understand how the hospitalization reportedly lasted only 9 days.

Of course recovery time can vary depending on the situation, treatment, and what actually happened medically.

But based on the details shared publicly, it still raises questions.

Another thing that stands out is the context surrounding the attempt itself.

From what was publicly visible at the time, a large part of the situation appeared to involve online harassment and cyberbullying.

Because of that, it feels reasonable to assume there may have been concern around that as well during or after hospitalization.

Which makes me wonder whether there was any outside involvement afterward, whether anyone looked into what happened more closely, or whether any follow up conversations took place regarding the circumstances around it.

This becomes even more difficult to understand considering Noah has also spoken about abuse at home, including being hit and SA'd.

If all of that is true, it feels surprising that there does not seem to have been more visible intervention or investigation surrounding his situation. Especially if he was hospitalized afterward.

It raises questions about whether anyone spoke with him in detail about his environment, whether concerns around abuse were ever documented, or whether any steps were taken to ensure his safety afterward.

Another thing that stands out is Noah saying he was discharged after 9 days because he was able to 'convince' hospital staff that he was okay to leave.

That explanation also feels pretty difficult to understand.

If someone was hospitalized following an attempt, while also physically underweight and dealing with everything else Noah described, it feels unlikely that discharge would come down to simply convincing staff alone.

Medical staff would usually be looking at multiple factors before discharge, including physical recovery, mental state, and overall safety.

That is why this part of the story feels difficult to piece together from the outside.

This note is not meant to invalidate anyone's experiences or make assumptions about medical care.

It is simply a personal observation that, based on the details shared publicly, several parts of the timeline feel difficult to reconcile and leave unanswered questions.

Another note from another admin working on this google doc:

Mention of SA, blood, injuries, abuse, and some incest (you'll understand why incest if you've read the previous pages)

A nine- day hospital discharge is a medical, legal, and psychiatric impossibility in a complex and serious case. Physically, a 14 year old boy (Noah) who is underweight, starved by his parents, and suffering from both anorexia and bulimia possesses no bodily reserves to survive a mass trauma described as "half my body is cut up". The severe blood loss immediately triggers a deep hypovolemic shock (hypervolemic shock is a severe and life threatening medical emergency caused by the loss of 20% or more of the body's blood or fluids), which his atrophied heart muscle cannot compensate for (his physical state and eating disorders shrinks his heart because of the lack of nutrition to support the heart), while his starved and gelatinous bone marrow completely fails to produce new red blood cells. With all this he is going to have a mandatory refeeding protocol exceptionally dangerous; doctors must SLOWLY introduce micro doses of nutrition over a strict 10-to-14-days, so 9 days isn't even enough to give him his nutrition back SLOWLY.

Repairing extensive body demands an immense amount of protein and calories that his body does not have, wound healing will fail entirely. Requiring weeks of intensive ICU care and continuous telemetry monitoring to prevent systemic sepsis. Also his "I was able to convince them I was okay" while u attempted, have been abused by ur parents, sa'd by ur uncle, and half ur body cut up? You cannot convince a MEDICAL PROFESSIONAL that easily by a few words or even paragraphs. Medical professionals are highly trained to recognize "faking good/wellbeing" and will disregard any verbal assurances, that he is "fine" or "okay", relying instead on lab results, stable hemoglobin levels, and cardiac rhythms — none of which can physically materialize within 9 days.

Plus, the legal and psychiatric mandates securely lock the patient within the institutional system for prolonged period, and during this time there is no electronics like cellphones, tablets, chargers in order to keep Noah safe and so that he doesn't get back to the internet and possibly make his condition worse. The horrifying disco lure and discovery of chronic parental starvation and physical abuse compounded by sexual assault by his uncle, legally FORCES the hospital to activate immediate mandatory reports to law enforcement and Child Protection Services (CPS). This triggers emergency protective custody orders that strip the parents of their rights (but Noah mentions that his parents are still with him and that they're asked to monitor Noah's internet usage, but Noah describes it as "honestly they don't give a fuck" a sign of child negligence), bar them from the premises, and initiate a massive forensic investigation—including a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) kit, skeletal X-rays, and sensitive police interviews— to build a criminal case.

Once Noah is physically stable, he must be transferred internally to a secure, locked adolescent psychiatric ward to treat acute suicidality, severe body image distress, and complex PTSD. A standard short-term mental health hold is legally and clinically insufficient here. Because child protection laws strictly forbid discharging a minor into a unsafe environment, and because the uncle's involvement completely compromises the extended family network, CPS must spend weeks conducting intensive background checks to locate and judicially clear a specialized foster home.

This is the supposed process a patient is to go thru in Noah's situation, it would take nearly 30-90 days, impossible if it's only 9 days considering his physical, mental condition, relationship with his parents and uncle.

My estimated dates for the procedures

May 15 2026 to May 29 2026 (Days 1-14)

-Acute Intensive Care

May 29 to June 29 2026 (days 15- 45)

- secure, internal transfer to adolescent psychiatric trauma unit for 24/7 monitoring

June 29- Aug 13 2026 (days 45- 90)

- CPS coordinates with courts and attorneys to finalize criminal cases against Noah's parents and Uncle.

I cannot give clear sources because this is all my reasonings and speculations (plus an actual suicide survivor told me how the process goes)

Because all hospitals are different but ofc they all have their similarities and laws, processes, etc.. but a hospital would not discharge Noah in just 9 days considering his situation. Noah is in Arizona, so it's still not possible. Under Arizona Revised Statutes (A.R.S), a nine day hospital discharge is ruled out by overlapping legal and regulatory timelines required to protect and stabilize a minor.

Thats all from me. Thank you.

Have you guys ever wondered where alyah was at while Noah was basically getting called out by the whole community? she was nowhere near to be found and she wasn't on any videos explaining about Noah either

From what's visible, her latest repost before becoming active again appears to be from 2025, which makes the account look inactive for a while.

That by itself doesn't prove anything, but it becomes more noticeable when looking at the timing.

The biggest question is: why did Alyah start becoming active as an "upcoming" Daybreak content creator right after Noah's suicide attempt?

The timing feels very suspicious.

During the period where Noah was being heavily discussed by the community, Alyah was barely present publicly. There wasn't any video addressing Noah, and the account only shows around 2 reposts (one from 2025 and the latest one is 2026, after the said account becomes active again)

Then suddenly afterward, the account becomes active again around the same time after Noah's attempt.

Also take a look at this, you guys may notice how Noah and Alyah uses open and close parentheses, they always space up the parentheses before/after a word, not a lot of people do this.

Same humor, same texting styles and alyah only having 2 reposts. And have you guys ever noticed how alyah isn't online anymore? How alyah never reposts Noah posts, how alyah never made a new video considering she's an "upcoming daybreak content creator" ? Sure, maybe she lost passion on making videos but can you explain the punctuation marks (specifically how they use the parentheses) The answer is simple alyah is Noah alternate account also

I gave that account to alyah because shes a popular girl sadly and doesnt really wanna be seen playing daybreak, this is her real account. I wont be showing the full thing but just enough to show you that it is hers

I'm sorry but Noah, what is the correlation with alyah being a popular kid? Popular where? Irl?? Her accounts only have 2 friends who's a bacon so I don't think she's that popular until people would care about what she plays on Roblox and even if other people knows she plays daybreak it doesn't even matter cause of how small and underground daybreak is daybreak isn't a popular game so not a lot of people would even know.

That reasoning is difficult to understand.

If Alyah were a known Roblox content creator whose content focused on asymmetrical horror games, then maybe it would make more sense. Daybreak has had its own issues before outside from the fandom, so that explanation could at least be understandable.

But Alyah is not a content creator.

If Noah meant she is popular in real life, then that makes even less sense because there is no clear connection between being popular offline and needing a separate account to play Daybreak. Especially considering Daybreak is not a massively mainstream game where random people outside of Roblox would immediately recognize someone for playing it.

Another thing that raises questions is Alyah's level in game.

Alyah's account is still around level 4, which suggests the account is very new to Daybreak.

That feels unusual.

If someone genuinely wanted to become a Daybreak content creator, you would usually expect them to already have more experience with the game or at least be more familiar with it.

Level 4 is still extremely early.

Which leads to another question. Doesn't that means Alyah plays daybreak before on her main Roblox account?

If Alyah had already played Daybreak before on her main Roblox account, then why would she suddenly need an account from Noah to start playing and becoming a content creator now?

And if she had never played before, why would she decide to become active around the same time Noah disappeared from posting?

Either way it feels difficult to piece together.

The explanation creates more questions than answers.

Why was another account necessary?

Why begin posting Daybreak content in that specific time?

And why does the timeline line up so closely with Noah's absence

None of this proves anything on its own, but when looked at together it feels inconsistent enough to be questioned :))

We also found the account Alyah was allegedly using to play Daybreak, which was the account ; @evelyn_maurelle.

Even the name itself immediately stands out.

Noah's favorite character is Evelyn, so seeing the name evelyn_maurelle naturally raises questions.

This alone does not prove anything, and it could be a coincidence, but it is still worth pointing out because it feels unusual considering the context.

Later on, Noah responded to this,

He said that the @evelyn_maurelle account originally belonged to him and that he gave it to Alyah.

His reason was that Alyah is “a popular kid” and did not want to be seen playing Daybreak. This explanation was already discussed in the previous page.

Noah also stated that Alyah has her own Roblox account.

To support this, he showed a Roblox account under the name “alyah”, which he claimed was Alyah’s real account.

Later, we found that account ourselves under the username @chavalita620..

However, something about this did not line up.

As shown above, the display name on the account was not “Alyah”.

It was “Janae.”

The screenshot shown above has not been edited or altered in any way, despite claims made by Noah and people around him.

Later on, the display name of that account was changed to “alyah.”

That alone already feels strange.

But there is another detail that makes it even harder to understand.

If you look closely at the screenshot Noah originally shared, the display name appears as “Alyah” with an uppercase A.

But the name later shown on the actual account is “alyah” with a lowercase a. (see the picture below)

That difference may seem small, but it becomes important because it creates another inconsistency in the timeline.

Later, Noah responded to this by saying that he had bad WiFi while taking the screenshot. (see the image below for a better context.)

Tap here to report or block the sender.

This explanation does not really make sense.

A poor internet connection might affect loading speed, image quality, or whether parts of the page appear at all.

But it would not explain why a display name appears differently with different capitalization.

It would also not explain why the account was seen as “Janae” before later changing to “alyah.”

Also, for more context regarding Noah’s response to this situation, please see the images below.

noah

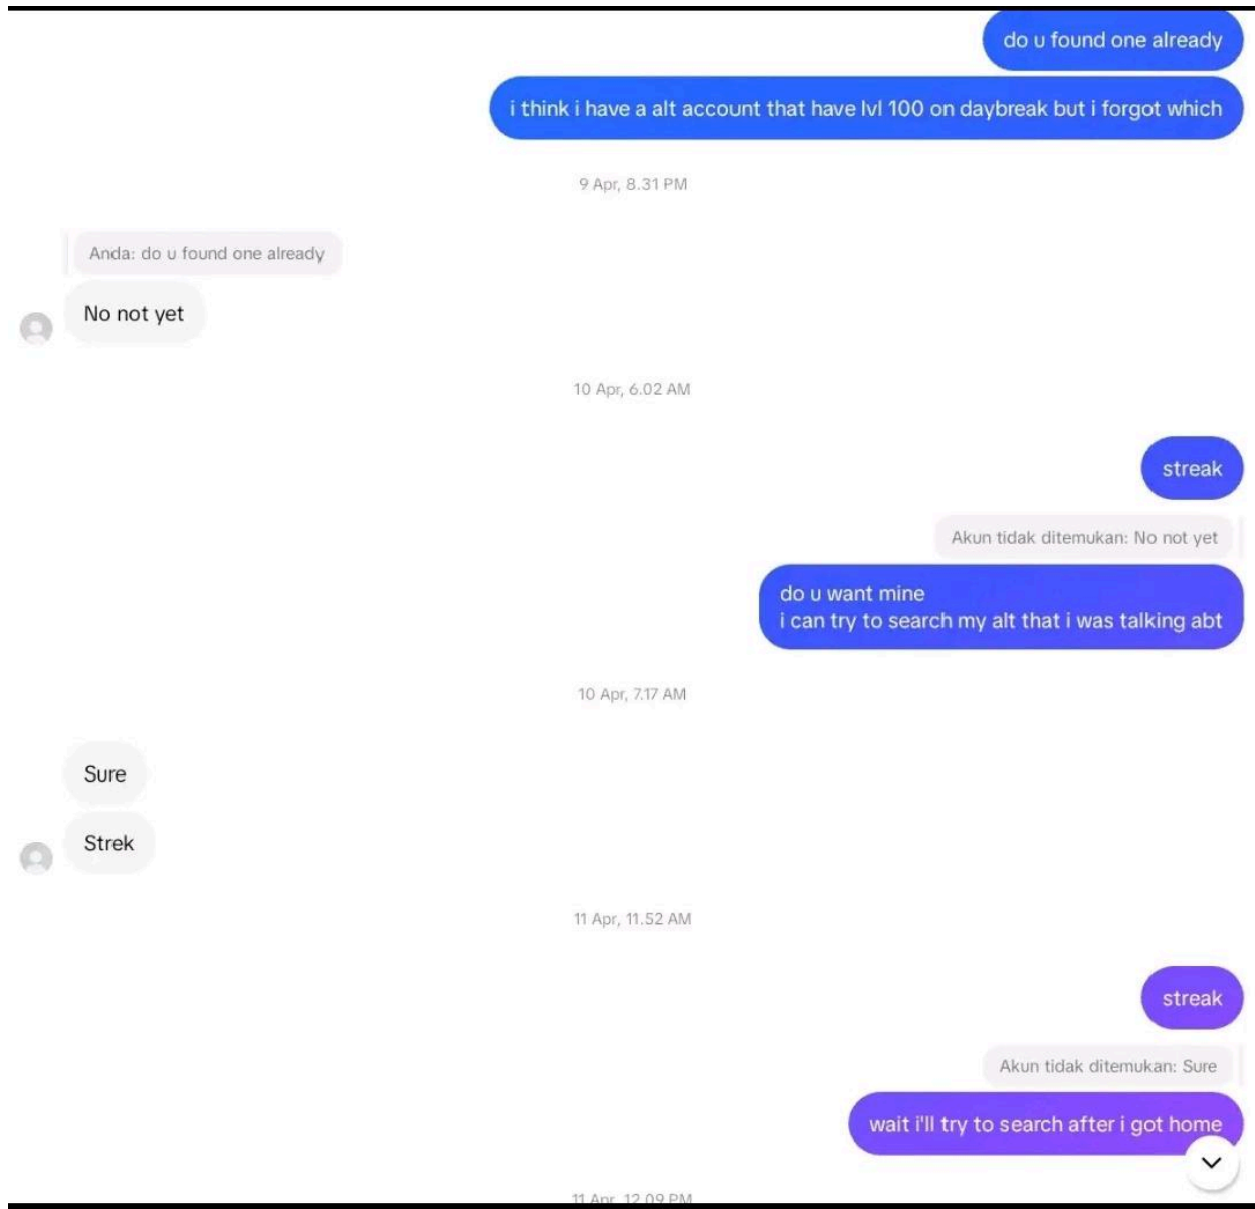

Also for the name thing, my moot found the account as Janae was on 9:02, and when they searched it again it was around 9:08. Im pretty sure that was around the time we were talking, amd the name could've been changed. Also Roblox let's u edit names of ur friends so its possible with that u edited it thru Roblox, thats why the A was capital but all of a sudden it's now a little a, and again bad Wi-Fi CANNOT alter words, or the capitalization of letters the only way that is possible is by autocorrect

On the 9th of April 2026

Noah's main account (@sigmafartwarty) got banned and he was asking his moots if they have an alt account he could use.

Another detail worth noting is the creation date of the @evelyn_maurelle account. The account joined Roblox on April 11, 2026.

This is the same date one of Noah's mutuals, Noch, reportedly gave Noah an alt account. What makes this stand out is that April 11 is also only two days after Noah's main account; @sigmafartywarty, was banned from Roblox on April 9, 2026. The timing is hard to ignore. what a coincidence :))

But when placed into the full timeline, it becomes another detail that feels worth pointing out.

One possible explanation I personally considered is that Noah may have created @evelyn_maurelle as a backup account shortly after his main account was banned. Possibly before receiving an alternative account from one of his mutuals. That would make sense considering he may not have known yet whether someone would lend him another account to use.

(Note: For more information regarding this, you can ask Noch. @nochnavida on tiktok.)

Another detail worth mentioning is that Noah has said himself that he has 2 devices, (specifically a phone and an iPad) This is relevant because having access to two devices would make it easier to switch between accounts, change details across accounts (which in this scenario, changing alyah's display name on roblox), or manage multiple conversations at once. It also raises the possibility of being able to send and stage messages between accounts more easily, since both devices could be used at the same time.

You guys may be wondering on every single post about Noah we have this particular vent account named Gabriel (Note: This page may feel confusing to some of you.

he literally made multiple apologies, learn the difference between a problematic person and a problematic action

Look at this one specifically, notice something familiar?

But if you guys go through their profile it looks normal yet they don't follow or even have any followers that's from the daybreak community (Gabriel doesn't even follow Noah and Noah doesn't even follow gabriel so what's going on here?) considering how small our community is there's no way a random normie suddenly knows about the daybreak Noah drama like it doesn't even make any sense they don't even have any repost on daybreak but one of their post was interesting on (cuz that's what me and noan did in dms). The death threats, the harassment it's all disgusting. I really wish him the best. To clarify I am not "switching up" all I'm doing is having basic empathy for a kid that's my age and someone who's being made fun of his weight even when he attempted. Disgusting truly

Gabriel was seen posting Noah's suicide note under other TikTok posts discussing Noah, especially posts that were calling him out, as shown in the screenshots above. This is where things become even more concerning. If Gabriel and Noah are the same person, this would suggest that Noah was using the suicide note to directly respond to criticism being made about him publicly. Which raises the question of whether the note was being used to create guilt among the people who had previously called him out.

If that is the case, it would strengthen the possibility that the suicide attempt, along with other parts of the story, may have been exaggerated or fabricated to gain attention, sympathy, and shift public opinion.

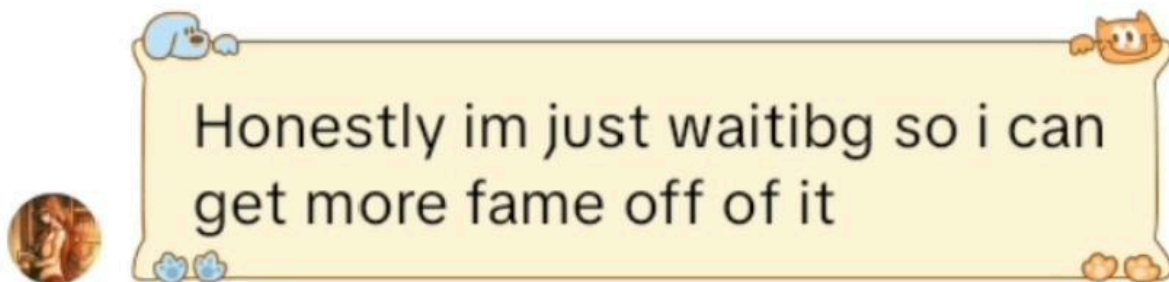

When looking at the timeline as a whole, the pattern feels difficult to ignore. From the callout posts, to the sudden disappearance, to the suicide note being reposted in comment sections, followed by public sympathy and people defending Noah afterward, the sequence appears very specific.

And it worked.

People began talking about Noah differently. Some made videos discussing him with sympathy. Others defended him directly in comment sections. The focus shifted away from the original concerns and toward supporting him.

Another detail worth mentioning is Alyah's sudden absence afterward. After being heavily involved in the story and repeatedly referenced during this situation, Alyah is no longer publicly visible and appears to have disappeared entirely from it.

Another evidence that should be quite important in this context:

Before all of this happened, Noah made some questionable videos on his tiktok not only that,

A user on TikTok posted their dms with Noah, not only Noah was becoming side tracked he was trying to guilt trip this creator weirdly enough, if you see in the post he was being quite manipulative.

In that conversation, Noah initially confronted the creator regarding the use of a specific art in one of their videos.

However, instead of keeping the conversation focused on that issue, Noah seemed to escalate it into something much more serious, even though the creator themselves had not intended it that way or done anything beyond using the artwork in question.

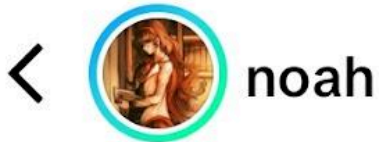

have you guys ever seen Noah addressing this any video, any story post, any response? And yet he responded to Aether's video about him not only that we didn't even see any comment from Noah on this post

Also, Noah likes to erase his dm histories with other people denying that he ever said anything questionable or straight up rude to them

If you have any questions regarding this section, you may ask him directly (@nochnavida on TikTok).

"On April 9, Noah posted on his story saying that his main Roblox account, @sigmafartywarty, had been banned by Roblox for violating the rules.

From what I know, I do not believe this was the first time.

Afterward, Noah asked his mutuals whether anyone had an alternative account he could use. At the time, I was one of those mutuals, so I gave him one of my alt accounts.

(Please note that when I give something to someone, I trust that they will also be responsible with what I gave them.)

A few days later, Noah began getting called out by many people regarding past behavior and other issues. This led to many people reporting Noah's accounts, including both his Roblox accounts and the alt account I had given him, to Daybreak moderators.

Eventually, the alt account I gave him got banned.

But,
It also affected my main account as well, resulting in my account being banned too.

After that happened, I asked Noah to message several people to help me try to get my account back. I believe I had every right to ask for that.

I am not saying it was entirely Noah's fault, but my account becoming affected was directly connected to the situation surrounding him.

One of the people Noah reached out to was Yuuni, who is part of Daybreak's art team. He told me that Yuuni was not answering him and was "ignoring him on purpose."

At the time, I believed him because I trusted Noah. He even sent me several screenshots that seemed meant to reassure me that Yuuni had blocked him.

Looking back now, I strongly believe those screenshots were fake.

Recently, I decided to ask someone who knows Yuuni if they could pass along my message and ask whether Yuunii had actually blocked Noah.

The answer was no. Yuunii did not block Noah.

Noah was the one who blocked Yuuni.

Finding that out was honestly extremely disappointing.

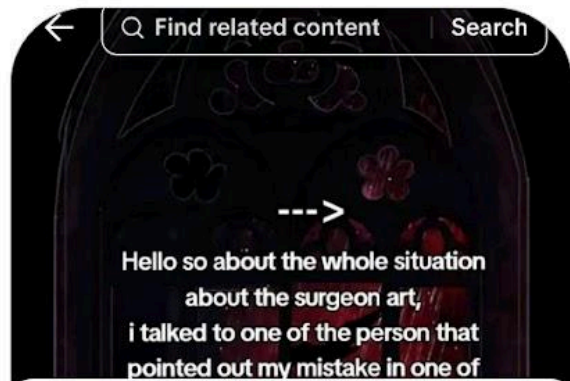

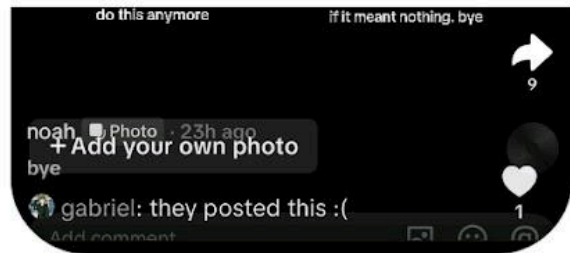

Honestly, I feel like he just did not want to help me get my account back.
And if that was the case, he could have simply told me directly.
I would have understood. :(”

Also, the writers of this document have a few final words they would like to leave for Noah.

Writer 1: "Noah, if you're reading this, i hope this becomes a lesson for you :p not saying you deserved everything that happened lately, but i do think everything happens for a reason.

you still have so much time to change. to be better. to be honest with people. and honestly being a good person with a good personality isn't that hard.

I know you'll probably change accounts, change identities, or try to run from all of this somehow. but trust me, if you keep doing that over and over again, nothing really changes. and no matter how many times you try to become "someone else," people eventually notice the pattern. no one is gonna stay if all they ever get is a different version of the same thing every time.

take what i said with a grain of salt. or don't. but I genuinely hope you learn something from all of this."

Writer 2: "HELLOOO NOAHHHH hiii if you're reading this thank you so much for seeing this we writers put blood sweat tears and the power of friendship :D

Oh also if one of this accounts mysteriously disappear oooohhhhhh~ don't worry cause I already recorded every comments every posts every reposts favorites following followers and more and since I don't wanna get called photoshopping this footage (that was really hurtful ouch my feelings you know I said it truthfully >:[) i recorded it with a different phone "dun" "dun" "dunnnnnnnn" tadaaaa I hope you have a wonderful day and I hope you actually learn your lesson cause if not we're gonna be so disappointed:(anyway here's the drive^^"

Hey Noah, I don't wanna sugarcoat this thing but you should truly get off the internet. Or maybe like.. reflect and change your behavior.. and/or think before posting 😞 frankly, it's obvious you're not that nice to anyone outside of your Friend group, which is understandable. I get it, but atleast have some respect on talking to people in your comment section. You're kinda mean 😭 Anyways Noah please get off the internet and go to therapy, you're obviously not mentally stable enough to be on the internet when this is your behavior. Not even gonna use your age as an excuse, just please man get off the internet.

(but before you do so please make a proper apology without defending yourself AND IS ONLY 1 minute long - writer 1)

Writer69: Sup Noah, I hope u take this doc, your actions and everything you've done as a lesson to help yourself, educate yourself etc. I hope ur well, I hope ur okay and I hope ur safe. Do not see this doc as harassment, this docs only purpose is to explain everything. And I hope your parents know about this, I hope ur parents are aware of what is happening. One more thing, take a break, please Off the internet for your own safety. Thank you
