

Skype Voice Group Games!

- Media Mashup!

You find the titles for two pieces of media (movies/tv shows/video games/etc) that share a common word, and then combine them. Then have other people guess that mashed up title by describing the mashed up thing's plot/story/etc.

Example: Batman and Robin Hood (Batman and Robin + Robin Hood) = This dynamic duo has to steal from the corrupt and greedy rich.

- Guess Who!

Everyone is given a game board image and then we play a game of Guess Who by asking questions of the others based off of describing the characters in the images on the board. Played with house rules such as no questions about what side of the board your character is on, or filename/character name questions.

- https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Chinese\_whispers

- Hundred Thousand Dollar Pyramid line:

Where it goes down a line of people, and you essentially play the 100,000 dollar pyramid by trying to describe a thing to someone so they guess the word, but they don't say it out loud! instead, they use THAT word as the word for the next person in line to try and guess XD and after 3 or 4 people down the line, see what words were gotten along the way and how close they are XD

Example: so start with like, me describing to you "a heating appliance for burning bread" (toaster), you would guess the word I'm describing, but don't say it out loud to me. instead just say "got it!" and then describe that word to the next person in line, but you have to use a different description than what you heard.

- <http://www.blankmediagames.com/TownOfSalem/>
- <http://gartic.com.br/>
- <http://agar.io/>
- Pinturillo

- Board Game Online

---

A turn based browser game in which players have to go through the most random and absurd series of events to get to the finish line. Each player rolls dice on their turn to determine how far they travel across the board, and have to go through a strange event on their turn. Each game is different, you can: be shot out of a catapult, make two inflatable alligators get married, 'accidentally' drink piss, smoke crack, become a member of House Stark, get eaten by a dinosaur, and most important to this game, betray all your friends and loved ones, all in the name of moving forward to win the game.~

<http://www.boardgame-online.com/>