7.2.3 Movie Storyboard Assessment

Procedures: When a movie is being produced, the writers will create a storyboard to show the timeline of events that will happen. Storyboards include pictures and text to tell the main points of the story of the movie. You will create a storyboard for a disaster movie using your assigned natural hazard and determine what type of house would survive the hazard and what type of house would not survive based on how well the houses are engineered for the hazard.

Use the boxes below to determine the plot of your disaster movie. Sketch the scene, and in the description section, include details about what you think would happen to the houses as the disaster progresses and why you think the houses will or will not survive. Be sure to answer the questions at the end!
