👑 Lace Quality Matters

The type of lace you choose will affect how natural your install looks and how long it lasts.

-HD lace is the thinnest and most seamless—it melts beautifully and gives the most natural look. But it's also the most delicate, so handle with care.

-Transparent lace is thicker than HD but still blends well, especially on fair to medium skin tones. It's more durable and easier for beginners.

-Brown lace is great for deeper skin tones, but it can be harder to melt if it's too thick or not the right shade.

Amazon & beauty supply lace can work, but it's hit or miss. Sometimes it blends great, sometimes it doesn't. If you choose this route, understand it's the most risky—but I'll always do my best to make it work.

Luxury lace will always give the best results. It melts easier, looks more natural, and holds up better with heat and product. If you want that flawless finish, investing in quality lace is worth it.