Course Description:

From Poe to Cummings, from the Gold Rush to the first steps on the moon, from Puritanism to the Women's Movement, this course will trace the trends and movements in American life through the writings of the people who lived the history. American Literature uses a text that includes original and historical documents, writings that are historically relevant and therefore, well-dated, and can be rigorous. In addition to the study of literature, some emphasis will be placed on the development of art, science, and history.
