History: Paul Jackstein was born in St Petersburg, a harsh and unforgiving environment that forged his early resilience and resourcefulness. Growing up, he displayed an innate aptitude for physical activities and a sharp intellect, traits that would later define his career. At 18, Paul enlisted in the Russian Armed Forces, where his exceptional performance in basic training quickly set him apart. Recognizing his potential, his superiors recommended him for the Spetsnaz, Russia's elite special forces. During his time with the Spetsnaz, Paul excelled in various special operations, including counter-terrorism, reconnaissance, and direct action missions. Joining Alpha Group marked the pinnacle of Paul's military career. The rigorous selection process and intensive training pushed him to his physical and mental limits. In a twist of fate, Paul's exceptional skills and unique background caught the attention of the SCP Foundation, a secretive organization dedicated to containing and researching anomalous phenomena. Recognizing his unparalleled expertise in handling high-risk situations, the Foundation recruited him into General Security, one of their most formidable units tasked with responding to Dealing with D-Class and providing internal security.

As an operative in General security he still lives in Gensec and would have worked the ranks in the officer core and would be a great help in the foundation.
