

Warning! Stop listening to long, boring recordings/videos and use this new 'hack' the next time you watch something to learn.

You know you chose the best topic of study which is exciting and interesting for you, but, your teachers are making it unbearable and incredibly boring. Everyone knows that school is not inherently boring, yet, majority of students still slack off, worst of all, they blame themselves for feeling not competent enough to sticking to a routine, not motivated enough to work, and not smart enough to complete assignments.

This is completely not your fault!

It is not your fault the education system is using ancient methods to teach a young, driven, and diverse audience like yourself. Nobody in this day and age has the time or SHOULD sit down and watch an hour long lecture recording or video for a single assignment, especially when there is an exciting and fast world full of potential out there.

Opportunities wait for no one! I can understand as a student what it's like to choose to scroll watching people I know I am better than on social media instead of taking notes on the 2 hour lecture I missed because I needed the sleep. After that, deal with the conventional guilt that comes with the lack of productivity in scrolling.

But is watching a 2 hour long recording really that much more productive besides from what the contemporary norm dictates?

Imagine having to limit and forcing yourself through your own education. Does that sound like any way for anyone to learn?

You are not falling behind in your classes, your education system is lagging behind in the real world.

You are not incompetent or unable to focus, you just recognize that the world is full of interesting opportunities and it is impossible to optimize them when you spend hours on one single subject.

STOP destroying your creativity and uniqueness for an outdated teaching model.

Participate and engage on the new wave of learning!

The wave of utilizing technology to shorten working time and maximizing knowledge absorption so that you don't waste the best years of your life! Since education institutions are not adapting to real world developments, it is up to you to take initiative and start learning in the future.

NO, I am not talking about using AI to write an essay for you. NO, I am not talking about pulling answers from old database. And NO, I am not telling to cheat your way through your education.

I am talking about an honest and proactive approach to utilize technology to acquire knowledge from videos in the least amount of time possible, in the most effective way possible.

If you want to enter the future of learning before anyone else, join the discord link below for exclusive access to tools which help shorten any video/recording and maximizes your knowledge obtainment through interactive digital methods. You will also be part of a driven, lie-minded community utilizing digital tools to excel in their pursuit of interests and ready to help anyone who wishes to join the journey.

Work at your own pace, not your teachers'. In the end, only you know what's the right fit for you.

JOIN DISCORD BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE: (insert link)