

Feel free to comment harshly , i need some serious feedback . PS this is aimed at a supplement company.

Hello

I came across your youtube page whilst I was searching for information on weight loss exercises and motivation and was impressed with your fan base and online business and by how far you have come since 2009.

As I looked further into your website and fan base I noticed that your instagram account has significantly more subscribers than your facebook or youtube accounts. Aswell as this I can see that you have stopped posting on your youtube account which is a shame as it still has 15,000 subscribers.

I believe your company could benefit largely from expanding your social media presence on all of your current platforms as well as some other platforms. This will allow you to gain more dominance in the industry. There are business methods and skills I have learnt that could propel your company.

I am seeking businesses to collaborate with that could benefit by utilising my knowledge and skills , and I think your company will be a fantastic one to do so with. Together, we can inform and promote awareness among a larger audience about the advantages of using your products and the real power of your clinically proven ingredients that can help transform more and more customers into ripped beasts .

The effect our collaboration might have excites me down to my core. As a show of goodwill I would like to offer you a couple of free ideas that you could use to generate leads via a sales call.

Looking forward to our prosperous partnership,

Yours truly -
