The reason I'm reaching out is that I'm a veteran automation specialist who recently helped Vention add $62k in revenue last month through optimized automation systems.

I believe I could use the same expertise to help {{companyName}} drive growth and achieve measurable results.

The reason I'm reaching out is that I run a sales system agency that connects businesses with their ideal clients. I'll present your strong candidates in front of your ideal clients and assist them with their hires more efficiently.

Last quarter, I helped EMO Matrix generate over $500k in revenue so confident this will help {{companyName}} place faster.

Would this make sense? If so, would you like me just to go ahead and generate a list of leads for you, or would you prefer to chat first?

I notice that even established recruitment agencies often struggle with unpredictable revenue streams - bouncing between peak months and quiet periods.

We specialize in helping recruitment firms land 5-7 qualified meetings every month with enterprise clients (avg. hiring budget $100K+), without relying on referrals or costly SDR teams.

Would you be open to exploring how we could help {{companyName}} create more predictable growth?
