

PANTHERS OF THE MONTH

In the AMS Panther of the Month program, staff and students are first invited to nominate students whom they think deserve recognition for living up to ideals described by AMS's General Learner Outcomes. Teachers then evaluate those students' practices of the GLO's. Finally, one 7th grade and one 8th grade student are named AMS's Panthers of the Month and given small rewards for being great role models for their peers.

January Panthers of the Month

Rory Lantz has been recognized as 8th Grade Panther of the Month for January. She is a top student with a great caring personality. She is very generous with sharing kindness, knowledge, cooperation, and positivity with classmates and teachers. Additionally, Rory is always willing to assist others with their understanding of school work. Congratulations, Rory!

Errali Perez has been recognized as the 7th Grade Panther of the Month for January. He is a great student who is very conscientious about his academics and uses his teamwork skills to help his peers collaborate successfully on class projects. Errali is a very diligent student, helpful, courteous and friendly. Great job, Errali!

February Panthers of the Month

The 8th Grade Panther of the Month for February is Blake Webb. Blake has become a great role model for his peers, routinely putting others ahead of himself. He is always ready with a smile, making everyone feel welcome. He is also just an easy person to talk to and very understanding. Well done, Blake!

The 7th Grade Panther of the Month for February is Madison Smith. Madison was selected because of her positive and productive approach to school. She completes classwork well and takes time to help others. Additionally, she shares her thoughts and ideas in a nice, calm way and is always interested in what other people have to say. Ho'omaika'i e Madison!

March Panthers of the Month

8th Grade Panther of the Month for March is Caitlin Crawford. Nominated for being exceptionally responsible, a thoughtful problem solver and a great team member, Caitlin is very responsible and respectful with both students and adults. She is a hard worker and always goes back to fix work even if it is not required. Congratulations, Caitlin!

7th Grade Panther of the Month for March is Ethan Bellus. Teachers share that Ethan is an enthusiastic member of class, listening attentively during class and pro-active about completing his assignments. And when he is done with his own work, he is always happy to help other students with a smile and positive attitude. Great work, Ethan!

April Panthers of the Month

The 8th Grade Panther of the Month for April is Kayden Hickman. Kayden routinely displays a kind attitude, is always helpful, and does quality work. He is a self starter, jumps right into his assignments and adds great ideas to class discussions. When other students need help, Kayden is always willing to take the time to work with them. Great work, Kayden!

The 7th Grade Panther of the Month for April is Mia Haasch. Mia is a great role model whose work is always completed carefully and turned in on time. Whenever anyone needs help, classmates or teachers, Mia is ready to step in and help out. This student is regularly respectful and kind. Well done, Mia!

May Panthers of the Month

The 8th Grade Panther of the Month for May is Anastasia Quinn Brown. Quinn is an invaluable addition to all class and student groups due to her joyful disposition and hard work ethic. She constantly strives to do her very best and when it comes to her peers, she is always willing to lend a helping hand with kindness and understanding. Ho'omaika'i e Quinn!

The 7th grade Panther of the Month for May is Matthew Solis. Matthew gets along with everyone and makes the work fun when taking part in group assignments. He has a great positive attitude about his work and helping other students and the teacher, going out of his way to learn and share his learning with others. Congratulations, Matthew