This document contains a simple representation of a page to go on the innersourcecommons.org website (likely under the events section)

This page content is related to our Foundation mission to be the central, neutral hub for InnerSource in the industry. In order for that to happen, we need other conversations of InnerSource to stay connected back to the InnerSource Commons.

This page identifies conferences where InnerSource may be of interest. The goal is that people that are already involved in the InnerSource Commons apply and are accepted as event speakers. This acceptance puts them in a position to represent InnerSource and the InnerSource Commons at the event.

InnerSource is at the crossroads and interacts with many parts of software engineering. We want the InnerSource message to be told in these circles and for people there to know about and participate in the InnerSource Commons. Here are ideas of conferences that we think would be good candidates for a talk on InnerSource. Take a look, and if you are planning on applying to speak at one of these, then open an issue to let us know so that we can support you through it.

Here's what we need to do for conferences:

- Have a list of conferences to attend

- ○ Open Source
- ○ Agile
- ○ DevOps
- ○ Platform Engineering
- ○ Geographic regions (from local community)
- ● For each conference:
  - ○ Keep track of the CFP deadline
  - ○ Encourage people to apply
  - ○ Send people with an InnerSource Commons t-shirt and laptop stickers
- ● Things to check:
  - ○ Every month for new conferences.
  - ○ Every week for people to move along with their submissions.
