

I Think You Can Do Better

Greetings,

I came across your YouTube video on how to properly administer IM injections for your clients. I can see the value that videos like these can bring along with the tremendous peace of mind to your clients and even those administering their prescriptions on their own at home.

As your website has stated, the industry you are in is giving Men the opportunity to re-optimize their health and to put that opportunity in their own hands by coming to you instead of traditional medicine

Which seems to neglect Testosterone, the key male hormone, and would rather prescribe a cocktail of different pharmaceuticals that do not tackle the root problem.

Similar to that notion of optimizing men's health where it matters, I work with businesses to optimize their outreach to bring in more clients by making the most of what you already have

And unlike a big marketing agency that will give you a cookie-cutter action plan that does not solve the fundamental deficit(similar to how I mentioned traditional medicine and unrelated pharmaceuticals).

I will sit down with you on a call and we will go over what specifically is the best course of action to optimize RENEW.

I look forward to hearing from you, thanks!

-Bill