

The British Accent Audit

or How to make Brits say “something’s totally changed about your accent - you sound great!” when you only saw them two days ago

➡ Stop Wasting Time on the Wrong Sounds. Fix What Actually Matters.

You could spend years practising tongue twisters, minimal pairs, and “difficult” words... and still get that polite smile that natives use when we haven’t understood you but we’re too polite to tell you.

Why? Because 60% of misunderstandings come from the basics - not the fancy stuff.

It’s the everyday words - the top 1000 that make up 50% of spoken English - that you’re still mispronouncing.

- Work vs. walk
- Can vs. can’t
- Bird, boat, bought

It’s also the way you link your sounds, the way you stress words and phrases, the way you use intonation

- Using upward intonation where you’re trying to sound assertive (which actually makes you sound timid) or using hardly any intonation when you need to sound friendly (which makes you sound anything but friendly)
- Placing stress on the wrong parts of a phrase or on the wrong word so your meaning is totally misunderstood

- Never adding or dropping sounds in fast, connected speech so that although you're clear, you sound too careful and natives never relax fully when we're chatting to you

If the individual sounds aren't crystal clear and your stress and intonation is not properly controlled, you're invisible. The conversations where you know your ideas are pure gold pass you by because your thoughts move ten times faster than your tongue.

You Know....

- your accent announces you're from somewhere else the second you open your mouth (and it's not that you're trying to hide ... but there's more to you than that and it'd be nice if people noticed the other stuff first for once)
- people sometimes struggle to understand you and so they keep conversations with you short and functional and you miss having the juicy conversations that you have in your mother tongue.
- you sound different - but you have no idea where to start fixing it.

So you guess:

👤 You try tongue twisters.

👤 You watch aaaaaaall the YouTube videos.

👤 You shadow your favourite actors.

👤 You practise random sounds... and nothing changes.

*And yet as soon as you speak, you immediately wish you could take it all back because the way you sound just isn't right. It's embarrassing and it's so, so frustrating.

Especially when you're a teacher, a coach or a professional whose pronunciation is your business card.

You don't want to be "the Spanish/French/Ukrainian/Italian/Indian colleague."

You want to be the expert - the one people listen to without hesitation.

Introducing...

The British Accent Audit or How to make Brits say “something’s totally changed about your accent - you sound great!” when you only saw them two days ago

For £99 (rising to £222 on Friday 24th April OR after the first 10 slots have been sold), you get:

- ✓ A laser-focused voice analysis – No generic advice. Just the high-impact sounds, stress, and rhythm issues that are actually making you stand out (for the wrong reasons).
- ✓ Written + video feedback – A detailed report written by me with videos also written and recorded by me showing exactly what to change and how to practise it so that you don’t keep making the same mistakes again and again and again.
- ✓ Personalised action points – Clear, prioritised next steps so you know what to fix first and why.
- ✓ A no-waffle recommendation – What exactly to do next to keep improving, fast.

This isn’t about “fixing your accent.”

It’s about focusing on the 20% of pronunciation that creates 80% of how you’re perceived - so you stop guessing and start sounding clear, competent and smooth.

Who’s This For?

You, if:

- You’re a teacher, coach, or professional who needs to be understood effortlessly because your English is your business card.
- You’re tired of being “the foreign one” in meetings, even though you’re the most qualified and you’d love it if your accent wasn’t the first thing everyone noticed about you..
- You know your accent is “fine”, maybe even two times better than your friends’ and colleagues’ accents - but you also know it can be much much better and you’re ready to stop wasting time & energy on the wrong things.

Why Now?

Because every day you delay is another day of:

- Replaying conversations in your head long after they finished and cringing at that ridiculous mistake you made.
- Feeling like you're not being taken as seriously as your native colleagues even though your ideas are bloody brilliant.
- Wasting time on “pronunciation practice” that doesn't actually change anything.

And right now the British Accent Audit is only £99 for the first 10 sales. It will go to its full price of £222 when these ten spots are sold OR on Friday 24th April.

Most people waste months—or years—on:

- ✗ Trying to improve everything at once (instead of the 20% that matters).
- ✗ Watching endless free content (without ever changing how they speak).
- ✗ Practising in isolation (but freezing up in real conversations).
- ✗ Focusing on advanced vocab (instead of everyday speech).
- ✗ Thinking clarity comes from grammar and vocab (not delivery).

The truth? Some sounds matter much much more than others and you don't need to focus on everything But the stuff you do need to fix? You really REALLY need to fix it.

What You'll Get:

A clear, personalised pronunciation plan focused on the small number of changes that will make the biggest difference to:

- How you sound in meetings, presentations, and casual chats.
- How people respond to you (no more polite smiles and blank stares).
- How you feel when you speak - competent and brave, not self-conscious.

No more guessing.

No more embarrassment.

No more wasting time on things that don't work or don't matter.

Your Investment

 British Accent Audit: £99 (rising to £222 after the first 10 spots are sold or on April 24th, whichever is sooner)

You In?

Of course you are.

✨ Because you didn't invest those late nights and 5am starts just to stick "good enough",

✨ Because you are sick to death of being talked over in meetings and missing your chances because your English made you stumble,

✨ Because you are completely over taking the safe route because you don't dare say what you really want to say because of that niggling doubt in the back of your mind that no one will understand you,

✨ Because deep down you know that the right words with the wrong delivery are just noise,

This is where you stop apologising for your accent and start loving the way you sound.

Where "Sorry, can you repeat that please?" becomes "Tell me more."

Where meetings stop being something you survive - and become rooms you thrive in.

This is the last time you'll ever feel invisible in English.

The price will rise.

Time is ticking.

So...

Do you want this?

Or are you just going to wish you'd clicked?
