

GCC Photo Activity - Aman Abidi

- How you see yourself

In this photo, I am holding a funny mask. I wanted to show that I am a fun and creative person who loves humor. Also I don't take life too seriously. This photo makes me feel energetic and happy. If I posted this on social media, people would likely comment with laughing emojis, which matches the fun energy I wanted to share.

- How you would like to see yourself

as a successful person surrounded by other successful people. This photo makes me feel professional. It reminds me of my future goals and the career I want to build. I think I succeeded in showing this because we all look professional, focused, and ready for the future.

- How you think others see you

I think others see me as someone who left his country to study abroad. Sometimes, I worry that people think I left because I hate my country, but that is not true at all. This makes me feel a little misunderstood. On social media, people see a student enjoying his life, but they might not realize that I still miss home.

- How you would like others to see you

This is a photo of me on International Day, representing Tunisia at a cultural booth. I want others to see me as someone who loves his country deeply. I am wearing the flag and sharing my culture. I think I succeeded because the photo clearly shows my pride. I feel very happy and connected to my roots in this picture. I want everyone to know that even though I live abroad, I am proud to be Tunisian.

Reflection:

The "Real Me" I believe the photo at the Tunisia Booth represents the "real me" the best. Because it shows the balance in my life: I am studying abroad and meeting new people from different cultures, but my heart is still with my country.
