Workshop - Arraiolos stitch

Susana Cereja

Let's make an artwork together? A little tapestry 20x20 but this time with Arraiolos stitch?

Arraiolos stitch is an ancestral Portuguese technique dating back to the 16th century. When I started to renew and develop this technique in 2017, it was totally forgotten in time and was only used for the floor. The challenge has been to place it in Contemporary Art. I use a stitch that is also no longer used and that in the 16th century was used for outlining figures, and I am here to teach you all about it!

This workshop includes:

- 4 hours of Arraiolos stitch Tapestry Workshop, where you will learn how to prepare the basics to start a work, start a small piece, most known stitches and, very important, how to finish the work (more complex than many of you may imagine);

- Materials

(you just need to bring a lot of willingness and enthusiasm for learning and sharing)

- A break of about 30 minutes, to share stories and enjoy some snacks, coffee, tea or juice.

If you really want to share this good time with me and learn the best I can teach you, apply to this workshop.
