Start here!

Hello and welcome to the information center for Narathura tribes! This will serve as a directory to other informational documents as well as provide answers to some common questions.

Link directory:

Narathura Nook
Trading Posts
Jade Coins
Cities of Narathura
Myths and Legends
History
Shrines
Maps
Design Guides
Masterlists
Toyhouse

What is Narathura?

Narathura is the continent where LotusWings, RidgeWings, SnapWings, and BloomWings originate from. These are all fantribes designed to be in the Wings of Fire universe. Each tribe has unique qualities and differing rarities. They are collectively referred to as Narathura tribes.

What is a LotusWing and how can I get one?

You can find the LotusWing information page here. They are a semi-open tribe, meaning that some of their subtypes are free to make, but some are closed. LotusWing subspecies labeled as “common” are free to make. Uncommon, rare, and hybrids must be bought through the Trading Post, or gained through adopts or events.

What is a RidgeWing and how can I get one?

You can find the RidgeWing information page here. They are a closed, uncommon tribe that can be purchased in the Trading Post. You can purchase adopts of this tribe, but cannot make your own unless you have purchased a MYO.

What is a SnapWing and how can I get one?

You can find the SnapWing information page here. They are a closed, uncommon tribe that can be purchased in the Trading Post. You can purchase adopts of this tribe, but cannot make your own unless you have purchased a MYO.

What is a BloomWing and how can I get one?

You can find the BloomWing information page here. They are a closed, rare tribe that can be purchased in the Trading Post. You can purchase adopts of this tribe, but cannot make your own unless you have purchased a MYO.

What is on the Discord server?

The Discord server (called Narathura Nook) can be found in the directory. There, you will be able to easily access the staff members, shops, adoptables, tribe announcements, and jade coin art submission. You can also check your jade coin balance, submit art for events, get approval for your MYOs, ask questions, and more. On the social side of things, you can find a channel for roleplaying, gaming, art submission, art help, casual conversation, meme posting, and much more.

What are jade coins?

Jade coins are the currency of Narathura, and can be used to buy traits, MYOs, adopts, and art. These coins are gained by drawing art related to Narathura, but it must be looked over by a staff member. They can also be earned from events, raffles, and shrines. It is advised to keep track of your jade coin amount, but if not, you can check it through the “balance check” channel on Narathura Nook, or with a staff member. Only staff/guest artists can sell adopts for jade coins, but anyone can apply to take commissions for them.

What are shrines?

Shrines are locations in Narathura where dragons can visit to leave offerings to the deities of the land. Visiting a shrine and submitting an offering is one way to interact with the other world, and possibly get rewarded (or punished). Leaving “good” offerings may get you something you want, or it may leave you empty-taloned. Leaving something “bad” can have its consequences. Rare items can be earned this way if specific offerings are left at just the right time, and some shrines are only active during corresponding events.

The only limit to what sorts of objects can be left is up to your imagination. Jade coins can also be left, but they will be deducted from your actual balance.

You (or a Narathura OC) can increase your chances of earning better gifts from the gods by choosing a patron/matron deity. This will not only raise the chance of getting what you ask for, but also extra gifts and possible aid during roleplays. You can choose a deity by calling for them three separate times when consulting a shrine, leaving offerings with symbolic connections, and drawing/writing your character leaving the offering or interacting with the deity in some way (If you don’t have a Narathura OC, any WoF OC will work).
If you would like to have the same deity connected to you in general or every Narathura OC, it is not necessary to name a specific OC when leaving offerings. If you would like a specific OC to be connected to a deity, or multiple OCs serving different spirits, then their names should be mentioned in the offering. You can find each gods’ preferred shrine and symbolic items or sigils in the myths and legends document.