Class Skills
Magic Resistance E Though she did not possess any form of resistance to magical energy during her life, she gained this Skill thanks to being summoned as a Rider class Servant.
Riding EX Main Skill of the Rider Class Servants. It represents the ability and level of mastery in riding various mounts and vehicles. Laika was sent to space in a spaceship called Sputnik-2, being the first animal to conquer the stars. As such she is able to steer all vehicles including spaceships and giant robots with perfect skill.

Personal Skills

Pioneer of the Stars EX

At the beginning of the Space not much was known about the impact space travel would have on people and animals. Laika was the first living being sent to space with the power of modern technology. Her death paved way for further conquest of space.

Despite not being a human herself Laika definitely was a figure that became a turning point in the human history. All difficult voyages and challenges which are considered "impossible" turn into "events that can be realized".

Animal Dialogue A

Ability to communicate with wild animals that can not speak in "language of words". As an animal herself, Laika can perfectly understand intentions of wild animals and convey her thoughts to them. However she can not act as a human-animal translator, because despite understanding humans perfectly she can't speak human herself.

Mana Burst(Flames) B-

Skill given to her because of the way she died. Laika overheated soon after her voyage reached its highest point. When angry she can focus to raise the temperature of her body and start emitting large amounts of flames. She doesn't like using this skill as it brings her pain both physically and mentally. Used mostly in very dire situations or to further power up her final Noble Phantasm.

Noble Phantasms

Soviet Space Dogs

Простейший Спутник 2

Type: Anti-Army

Rank: C++

Sputnik-2. A spacecraft piloted by Laika in her first and final journey to the outer space. It has two modes that it can freely transform into. First one is a spacecraft, capable of high speed flight. Second one is the battle mode. Sputnik transforms into a giant robot equipped with many forms of weaponry such as machine guns and missile launchers. It's armor is very sturdy, and inside the cockpit there are many scientific instruments that allow Laika to scout the surrounding area and monitor the Sputnik's condition. This Noble Phantasm is sustained by the energy of all the Soviet Space Dogs that weren't famous enough to become heroic spirits themselves, so the actual mana cost to use it is relatively low.

Laika, the Conqueror of Space

Покоритель космоса

Type: Suicide

Rank: A

"And our efforts are rewarded,
We have overcome powerlessness and darkness,
We've forged these flaming wings.
For our Nation
And this age of ours!"

Noble Phantasm representing Laika's heroic death, that let humanity reach the final frontier. There is no doubt that using this Noble Phantasm will result in Rider's death, however there are things worth dying for and she is ready to pay the ultimate price for her Master's wish.

When the True Name of this Noble Phantasm is revealed, on Rider's back a pair of giant flaming wings emerge. Laika then charges at incredible speed at the enemy and in just a few seconds brings the opponent with her to outer space. Flames fueled by Rider's soul explode out of her body like a miniature supernova completely vaporizing everything in the area. As her ashes fall down to Earth, something else falls with her - knowledge. With her death her Master gains all necessary information to "succeed in his endeavors".

Lore

Laika was born on the streets of Moscow. Ever since she was born she was showing aspirations to become something more than just another dog dying in the ditch. On many nights she was looking high up into the stars wondering about the reasons why she was born. Then on that fateful day she met him, a Russian scientist that was looking for dogs that would participate in the Russian space program. She listened to him talking about the greatness of Mother Russia and how they will succeed in the conquest of space before other countries do, and in his words she found her purpose. That was when her rigorous soldier training began. Together with her fellow space dog comrades she learned all the things necessary to be the first pilot to reach the stars.

When her big day came, Laika knew that no matter the end result this will be a day that will go down in history. She knew it was going to be a one way trip but she found the resolve to do this anyway. The spacecraft launched, but after she reached places no one has ever reached before, there was an accident which caused a failure to the cooling system. Laika died of overheating. The spacecraft continued to orbit the earth and after few months it disintegrated during the reentry.

Her death wasn't in vain though, before that not much was known about the effects travel like that would have on living beings. Laika's sacrifice paved the way for humanity and space travel. In her honor many statues were built and she will forever be remembered as an important figure in human history.

Personality

Laika was often described as quiet and charming. She prefers to avoid conflicts if possible. However behind that lies a strong heart that is willing to do whatever is necessary to help her Master win. She is extremely loyal and willing to sacrifice herself for greater good. Days spent on the streets of Moscow and her soldier training taught her how to take care of herself in every situation. Very clever, often gets lost in her thoughts. Loves to listen to classical music and poetry. Likes to be called a “good girl”.
