This is the university accessibility information on the Maurice Keyworth Lecture Theatre. In addition to the furniture pictured, there is a row of moveable desks and chairs at the bottom of the theatre. This means that there are multiple wheelchair accessible spots. The lighting in the theatre is very bright, so it's suitable for lip reading. However, it may cause overstimulation.

The accessibility contact link doesn't work on the uni website, so please contact SolidarityAgainstScholasticideLeeds@proton.me for accessibility information about the event.

One of the event stewards will be meeting and greeting the participants near the entrance. If you need support in attending, please speak to them. There will be multiple stewards supporting the event on the day.
